A Royal Marriage
Ada Lewis and Davis
Who Is Responsible?
"Go to," Says Kemal

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1925, by Star Co.

THE ITALIAN Princess Mafalda married a good looking German Prince, Philip of Hesse, yesterday.

Many royal families were represented, from Germany, Denmark, Greece, Roumania, Great Britain, Spain, other countries.

Prince Philip, whose family was among the first to accept the teachings of Luther, was married by special dispensation, after promising that any children born would be brought up in their mother's Catholic faith.

THE MARRIAGE means that the Prince can never become head of the house of Hesse. If he did, it would be necessary for his wife and children to become Lutherans.

Martin Luther becomes less important, apparently, after such a beating as Foch and his associates gave to William Hohenzollern.

ADA LEWIS, well known for years as a successful actress, is dead. Her success proves the importance of OPPORTUNITY.

Many years ago, when Harrigan and Hart produced one of their old-fashioned plays, a little Irish girl sang: "The Brooklyn Bridge at Midnight Is Known as Lovers' Lane." And the chorus included a girl in rags, hands on her hips, chewing gum and making "tough gestures" as her contribution to stage business.

She evidently had talent, so Richard Harding Davis then a reporter on the Evening Sun, was sent by this writer to "write up" Harrigan & Hart's "Tough Girl." The story appeared; Ada Lewis became a star immediately. Davis was a good reporter.

EVIDENCE AT the Shenandoah investigation shows that Commander Lansdowne, who understood flying, protested against taking his ship through the storm belt of the Middle West, and asked for a postponement.

Those knowing nothing about flying, but unfortunately controlling aviation in the United States, ordered him to go, in order to "impress certain State fairs on the way." Because his advice was not taken Lansdowne was killed.

WHO IS RESPONSIBLE for his death? And how good a suit for damages have his widow and the other Shenandoah widows against those that sent their husbands to death?

CONSIDER KEMAL PASHA, and Turkey that obeys his orders. He tells the League of Nations, England, France, Italy and the rest, in language of Shakespeare, "to go to." Turkey doesn't care what the League of Nations may say, and announces that it will pay no attention to any World Court decisions.

SUPPOSE THIS country were in the League of Nations, or affiliated with the World Court. Suppose it were necessary to discipline the Turks, to make them accept the views of Western Europe? Don't you think this country would be expected to do its share, and supply men, or at least money, to fight the Turks?

Do you feel that we OUGHT to supply men or money to fight the Turks? Do we want to mix

Second Girl in Lost Heiress Puzzle

SUITOR CONFESSES TO VIOLENT QUARREL WITH MISS DUDLEY

Determined to find the body of Dorothy Dudley, missing Brockton heiress, and learn whether she was the victim of a particularly atrocious murder or a suicide, the authorities renewed their activities today.

The search was taken up following another ineffectual grilling of Ernest Briggs, the girl's factory "sheik," who doggedly maintains his innocence.

The small-town Don Juan has admitted the paternity of two children, one by Dorothy Dudley and a second by a young woman resident of a nearby town, but disclaims any knowledge of the fate of the missing girl.

He also has admitted he and the Brockton girl quarreled violently

ARRESTS THREATENED IN BAR EXAM FRAUD

More than 300 embryo lawyers who successfully passed the last bar examination and who were ready to start practice are today fearful that they may have to go through the ordeal of examination all over again because of the scandal over the charge that examination papers were stolen before the last test.

All those who passed the examination are to be called before the Board of Bar Examiners for questioning, while, in addition, it is more than likely that the Massa-

SAFE CRACKERS TAKE $1,160 IN SOMERVILLE

Clambering over a piazza roof and smashing a rear window, today, crackmen took $1,060 in cash and a $100 Liberty Bond from the office of the Seven Oaks Dairy Company at No. 21 Garfield avenue, Somerville.

They knocked the combination off the safe, apparently working at their leisure. The job was discovered by the first company employe to reach the office today.

It was the second safe job of the week in Somerville. Monday night the safe of the Davis Square Spa in College avenue was wrecked in the same manner. The loot was $115.

In the last few weeks a dozen breaks of the same nature have been reported in Somerville. The police believe they are the work of a single gang.

Joseph Caillaux, head of French Debt Commission, as he burst upon the shores of United States in all his sartorial splendor. His raiment ran a gamut of colors—green, purple, white—a regular aurora borealis. He is short, stocky, bald—and a "go-getter" from the soles of his be-spatted sleeves to the tip of his garish green hat.

Washington, Sept. 24 (A.P.)— French and American governments turned today to a consideration of when and at what rate France can pay off its four billion dollar debt to the United States.

With the Treasury holding demand notes in excess of three billion dollars, bearing a nominal accrued interest of $870,000,000, the problem faced was to accommodate the will-

N. E. GOVERNORS WIN IN MOVE FOR BITUMINOUS FUEL AT $8

Boston and all New England may get soft coal at $8 a ton, due to the activities of the Governors of the six States.

In response to the appeal of the Governors the Central Pennsylvania Coal Operators' Association will hold a meeting next Tuesday to determine at just what price low volatile bituminous coal for household use may be shipped to New England.

Secretary Charles O'Neill of the association gives as his opinion of the price that it should be about $8 a ton.

This is only one of the steps to-offer with the price at the mine and the transportation charges in New England points.

Mr. Hammond's letter expresses the confidence that soft coal operators will not unreasonably raise prices or sell to middlemen who "exact unconscionable profits for simply selling way bills."

An appeal to the public for moral support in settling the present coal

W. E. SYMONDS IS ARRESTED

Salem, Sept. 24.—William E. Symonds, former chairman of the Board of Assessors, surrendered at police headquarters today when he learned that a warrant had been issued, charging him in nine counts with larceny.

The former city official was arrested by City Marshal Daniel J. Phalen and was arraigned before Judge George B. Sears.

Symonds pleaded not guilty to the charges and the case was continued until October 18.

Symonds is alleged to have secured abatements for taxpayers, but to have reported the abatements as smaller than they were and to have pocketed the difference.

It resigned several weeks ago, but confessed at that time, according to city officials to getting $200 in this manner from Agnes Carroll, a tax payer.

Mayor Bates called in State auditors immediately following the resignation, and Symonds' books were audited, a shortage of $780 being discovered, it is alleged. The shortage covered a period between November, 1923, and August, 1924.

FINDS BULLET IN WALL OVER HER BABY'S CRIB

Mrs. L. W. Prescott of No. 32 Hexom street, Watertown, was startled by the sound of an air rifle shot fired through the window of her bedroom. She hastened to the room where her baby lay asleep. The mother found the shot imbedded in the wall directly over the child's crib. Mrs. Prescott reported the incident to the police. The latter said they believed small boys were responsible for the episode.

BITUMINOUS OPERATORS CONSIDER $8 COAL FOR NEW ENGLAND

GOVERNORS SEEK REMEDY TO PUT END TO GOUGING

strike was made in behalf of the mine owners by Walter Gordon Merritt of New York, chief counsel for the anthracite operators, before a meeting of the New England Coal Dealers' Association, at Ford Hall.

"Public opinion is diseased," declared Mr. Merritt. "The public doesn't know its own interest. It is so much in the habit of suspecting the honesty of the coal operators that it refuses to support them even when public welfare is at stake.

"The tooth might as well be pulled now as later. In the present crisis the operators have proposed the only peaceful solution that human ingenuity can devise. If any one else has a bright idea let him step forward and be a Moses to his people.

"To give in to the demands of the mine workers means two or three dollars per ton more for coal, or ruin for the company."

Miners' Reasons for Arbitration Refusal

Philadelphia, Sept. 24 (A.P.)—The anthracite scale committee of the United Mine Workers today sent a telegram to the New England Coal Dealers' Association, in convention at Boston outlining the reasons for the refusal of the miners to submit their differences with the hard coal operators to arbitration.

The message was sent in answer to an address delivered before the convention by Walter Gordon Merritt, counsel for the anthracite operators, and the request was made that it be read before the meeting of the New England dealers.

"The United Mine Workers will not discuss arbitrable questions that arise under the terms of a contract after the agreement has been made. No business man would agree to submit to outside arbitration the terms and conditions that are to go in his contracts."

Anthracite Carriers Lose $3,500,000 in Week of Strike

New York, Sept. 24 (A.P.)—Nine railroads serving the anthracite coal mines are losing $3,500,000 a week in revenue as a result of the suspension of anthracite mining, it is estimated. The cut in revenue has forced laying off 15,000 railroad workers. Car loadings on the roads have fallen 40,000 cars a week. Where each of the nine roads load 1,000 cars of coal a day in normal times only 360 cars a day are being loaded out of coal in storage, and this number is steadily decreasing.

POLICE SHOTS HALT EVERETT AUTOIST

A mad pursuit through two cities, covering nearly three miles of highway, and marked by spurts of flame and a hail from the pursuing automobiles' machine guns, ended in the capture and arrest of of Raymond Chase of No. 377 Springdale avenue, Everett, today.

Revere Patrolman Geraghty was in the role of pursuing hound in the wild chase through Revere and into Everett.

Five times the patrolman fired at the fleeing speedster, but Chase, leaning low over the wheel in his lurching, ricocheting car, refused to stop until one of the policemen's bullets pierced a rear tire.

Chase lost control of the car, and it ran up on the sidewalk and crashed into a fence.

When the patrolman reached the scene, his revolver still smoking in his hand, Chase said calmly that he had been in a hurry to get home. That was all the explanation he would offer, though he may tell more when he appears today in Chelsea Court, charged with driving in a manner to endanger the public, refusal to stop on an officer's signal, and leaving the scene of an accident without making himself known.

Duncan M. Moody of No. 861 Main street, Malden, was driving along Broadway, Revere, in his light touring car, when another car came up behind him at high speed, and crashed into him. The driver of the second car was away again in a matter of seconds, but Moody pointed out the car to Geraghty, who came running to the spot after hearing the crash. The patrolman commandeered a car and the pursuit began.

ADA LEWIS, ORIGINATOR OF STAGE "TOUGH GIRL," DIES

New York, Sept. 24 (A.P.)—Ada Lewis, prominent on the stage as a comedienne for almost forty years, died today at her home in Hollis, Long Island, following a nervous breakdown last January.

Ada Lewis was the original "tough girl" of the American stage, making the character famous 30 years ago.

SEEK ARRESTS IN EXAM SCANDAL

chusetts Bar Association will prepare actions against those who are deemed guilty in the frauds.

Chairman Hollis R. Bailey of the Examiners' Board is authority for the statement that the bar examinations were fraudulently obtained by some of the candidates for admission before the examination.

"We are investigating, and we hope to learn more," said Chairman Bailey.

Before a person who successfully passes the bar examination is permitted to take the attorney's oath he or she is obliged to appear before a character committee, named by the Supreme Court, and answer questions which may be propounded by members of the committee.

That committee which consists of Judge A. K. Cohen of the Municipal Court, former Judge Robert Grant of the Suffolk County Probate Court, Charles S. Hill, Elisabeth M. Taylor and James Clarke have for several days been holding meetings in the room used by the full bench of the Supreme Court.

Each of the 310 persons whose rating entitled him to become an attorney, out of the 525 who took the examination, was separately questioned by the committee.

When fourteen who several times before had failed were found to be almost perfect in the last examination, the committee became suspicious that there was a leak somewhere in obtaining advanced information as to the questions prepared by the board of bar examiners.

Each of the fourteen denied he had any part in the apparent fraud, but some said that they had been told that a man in the corridor of the court house had offered questions for sale.

Pending further investigation it has not been determined whether a new examination must be held, but it is believed that such action will be taken.

The method of preparing questions for a bar examination is to have each of the five examiners present six questions. When these are accepted they are given to Hollis R. Bailey, chairman of the board, who locks them up in a safe at his office at No. 24 State street.

Later Mr. Bailey sends the questions to a woman and a sufficient number of copies are struck off on the mimeograph to supply each of the candidates who take the examination. That woman has two female employes in her office.

So far nothing but suspicion has developed, but a rigid inquiry is to be pursued.

AUTO FINE DIDN'T "TAKE" IN THIS CASE

Immediately after being released on bail on a charge of driving an automobile in Waltham without a license, Elio Sugarman of Revere, dared to return to his automobile and drive away. He got as far as Watertown when he was arrested a second time by Waltham officers, who had followed him. In Waltham court, he paid fines totalling $40 on the two counts of driving without a license and also for speeding.

CAILLAUX SEES SPEEDY DEBT SETTLEMENT

ingness and capacity of France to pay.

The French government has announced it desires a funding settlement; the American policy is to base the terms on the debtor nation's capacity.

There has been every indication that the American commission purposes to deal generously with the French proposals as they are unfolded, and Joseph Caillaux, French Minister of Finance, as head of the Foreign Commission, is prepared to keep at the task until some conclusion is reached.

As evidence of the French belief that an early agreement will be had, its members have engaged passage to sail for home October 2.

Administration officials here have made known that a downward adjustment of the debt total through a regulation of the interest rate is likely. The $870,000,000 in accrued interest is calculated on the 5 per cent rate which the loans have borne since they were made, and a recalculation at a lower rate will thus reduce that addition to the total amount to be funded.

No official has given any indication of what he believes to be a reasonable rate of interest for the nearly eight years which the loans have run.

France Hopes to Float Another Big Loan Here

Paris, Sept. 24 (I.N.S.).—The open suggestion that a debt settlement with the United States will enable France to float another big loan in America was made here today.

Most of the papers refrained from comment on the debt situation pending American reaction to M. Caillaux's funding plan, but there was an undercurrent of enthusiasm in view of reports that France was likely to receive better terms than Great Britain in the conference at Washington.

WARMER WEATHER IN SIGHT FOR BOSTON

The wave of chills is over—for the present at least. Cloudy but warm weather is promised for today, with fair and warmer weather for tomorrow.

At midnight, although there was enough chill in the air to make the furnace fires and stoves startled the day before seem comfortable, it was warmer than at a similar time the day before, when the mercury, at 48, was preparing to slide down to its minimum of 42 in the morning.

WALTHAM COPS RUSH TO BANK ON FALSE ALARM

Excitement reigned in Watertown Police Station when the vault alarm of the Watertown Co-operative Bank sounded. "Aha, bank burglars," was the thought that flashed through police minds. Patrolmen Igoe and Devaney were immediately rushed to the scene. There they found the alarm was due to a short circuit.

STAR DIVORCES BASIL SYDNEY IN FRANCE

Sweethearts of Stage Fail to Find Happiness in Their Own Married Life

New York, Sept. 24 (A.P.).—The romance of Doris Keane, who for eight years played the leading role in the play "Romance," has been shattered.

Just back from abroad she revealed that she had obtained a divorce in Paris from Basil Sydney, who long made stage love to her. In "Romance," Sydney was a young clergyman captivated by a prima donna, who rejected him for the sake of his career.

In "The Charina," Sydney was a young Cossack with whom Catherine the Great portrayed by Miss Keane fell in love.

Sydney is an Englishman and Miss Keane has applied for restoration of her American citizenship, which she lost when she married Sydney in January, 1913.

News of the divorce will surprise friends who thought that her romance was likely to last, especially in view of her apparent happiness with her husband and baby son in her New York apartment.

Miss Keane would not discuss the reasons for the divorce.

"Romance is one of the Eternal Things; it must never die;" she said last year.

When she arrived on the Cedric, she told a Customs appraiser one of her diamond ornaments was worth $40,000. It cost $12,000 several years ago in New York.

CONGRESS WILL HOLD ITS OWN AIR PROBE

Plans Separate Inquiry, No Matter What President's Special Board Does

Washington, Sept. 24.—The aviation controversy is going to be aired all over again in Congress this Winter.

Whatever the President's air board may recommend for improving aeronautics in the United States, it appeared certain today from moves by members of the Senate and House that Congress is going to stick its finger in the aviation row with independent investigations and a multitude of bills.

Congressional representatives on the board for instance will sponsor the legislation which the present investigators decide will be essential for bettering aviation.

PLANS SEPARATE CORPS.

Independently, if the board does not specifically urge it, Senator Bingham, Republican, of Connecticut, plans to introduce a bill setting up an air corps analogous to the Marine Corps and creating a bureau of civil aviation in the Commerce Department.

He has the bill in his pocket. Supporters of Colonel Billy Mitchell are preparing to get through Congress legislation establishing a department of defense in charge with equal power over the air, army and navy. Representative Curry of California would make Mitchell chief of the air force.

Colonel Mitchell will tell his story to President Coolidge's aircraft board on Monday. The airman is speeding to the capital from San Antonio, Tex., by automobile and will be the first witness when the board resumes its sessions.

Mitchell's testimony and cross-examination will likely require more than one day, and he will be followed by other experienced fliers, who will give their version as what is wrong with the country's air service.

Measures to put the government solidly behind the development of aviation, thereby creating a strong auxiliary arm of defense for use in war, are being considered by the board.

The board listened sympathetically to recommendations by government officials that Federal aid and encouragement should be given to commercial aviation just as are now given to the upbuilding of the army and navy air forces. Outstanding recommendations:

BUREAU OF AVIATION.

1—Secretary of Commerce Hoover recommended creation of a Bureau of Aviation, preferably under the commerce department, to have complete control of airways, lighting, licensing and inspection of planes and fliers. He suggested the Bureau of Lighthouses as the proper agency to govern the lighting of airways and airports, and the Bureau of Standards for control of technical and research work in the industry.

2—Postmaster-General New, urged that the government get out of the mail-carrying business and turn it over to private concerns under contracts similar to those now operating in the railway mail.

HUGE SUMS BE GIVEN.

3—Dr. Joseph S. Ames, professor of physics at Johns Hopkins University and chairman of the executive committee of the National Advisory Committee on Aeronautics, created by Congress in 1915, suggested that his organization be made the clearing house for all invention or improvements, as well as for research work in aviation development.

Shenandoah's Barograph Records Inspected

Lakehurst, N. J., Sept. 24 (A.P.).—A graphic record showing exactly how the squall caught the airship Shenandoah in the air over Ohio before wrecking it on September 3 was prepared today for presentation to the Naval Court of Inquiry sitting here.

This record was made by what is known as the barograph of the ship, an instrument for recording the exact altitude of the craft at all times during a flight. The record itself looks not unlike the familiar government charts showing the rise and decline of food and other commodities.

The barograph was in the control car and the record indicates that it functioned up to the moment the car struck the ground after its plunge of more than 1,000 feet, when it broke away from the hull of the Shenandoah.

In an effort to determine the exact position of the aircraft at the time the control car fell and the vessel itself broke up, the barograph record is being compared closely with the testimony of survivors describing the inclination of the craft at the time the man board the snapping and cracking of girders and supports as the structure began to fall in the terrific storm.

MALDEN POLICE DEMAND BOOST IN THEIR PAY

Malden police have petitioned for increased pay, which would give patrolmen $200 additional to their present pay of $1,875 a year. The proposed schedule would give the captains, $3,000; lieutenants and inspectors, $2,800, and sergeants, $2,600.

Fights Judge So He Could Break Into Jail

Rumford, Me., Sept. 24.—"You have kept me in jail all Summer and now put me there for the Winter," said Thomas Kelly of this town this afternoon as he struck Judge James B. Stevenson of Rumford Falls Municipal Court three times, bruising the magistrate's face. Kelly entered the judge's office this afternoon about 4 o'clock and after he made his declaration he committed the assault.

During the past Summer Kelly was arraigned before Judge Stevenson on several occasions for drunkenness and he spent the best part of the Summer months in South Paris jail for such offetences.

BABSON FLAYS SPECULATION AS UNGODLY

If Christ were on earth today, He undoubtedly would frown upon speculation as it is practised by the ordinary stock market manipulator, in the opinion of Roger W. Babson.

"How shocked people who knock poker playing approve ordinary stock market operations is by me," said the Sage of Wellesley Hills.

Mr. Babson, statistical wizard and one of the "severe critics and best friends" of big business, was the principal speaker at the twelfth annual national business conference at Babson Park, Wellesley.

USE FLAPPER'S EXCUSE.

"People wonder why so many lose money and so few make money in connection with their investments," he said. "It is because the average person seems to lose all moral sense of responsibility when it comes to investment. It is true the average person will not lie or steal to make a dollar. But if he can legally get one without stealing, lying or otherwise disobeying the law, it seems 'ordinary business.'

"The average person unconsciously uses the same argument relative to the investment of money that the flapper uses for her foolishness, 'everybody's doing it.'

"Even the acceptance of interest was frowned upon by the church for centuries. Of course, no one knows what the teachings of Jesus would be today on the question of accepting interest. Probably He would approve of it as a reward for saving. It is logically assumed that the payment of a market wage for the use of money should be approved.

CITES THREE PRINCIPLES.

"How can one make a profit beyond simple interest without risk? The answer is simple. The man who intelligently uses his money as a trust, unmoved by the appeals of his friends for help, or a lust for gain, never makes any losses. He is often handsomely rewarded.

"Losses are due either to unethical attempts to get something for nothing or mistaken judgment. Those willing to invest intelligently may eliminate mistaken judgment and select securities of companies which are worthy of expansion and gave the greatest opportunity for service.

"In my judgment, there are three forms of investment by which service can be rendered and an appropriate reward received. The first is to save. This gives a market rate of at least 6 per cent., without undue risk. The second is to help finance new industries for the general good, such as electric power companies. The last is to steady business by buying stocks in a panic and selling them in a boom, thereby checking dangerous periods of inflation and depression."

A. Vere Shaw of Boudder, Stevens & Clark, investment counsellors, spoke on "The Common Stock in Investing."

WARRANT AFTER CAR KILLS HOSPITAL NURSE

Complying with a request of police of Division 17, a warrant was issued for the arrest of William Maikland, motorman, No. 83 Brooks street, Brookline, on a charge of manslaughter.

The charge of manslaughter is an outgrowth of the accident which resulted fatally for Miss Margaret Farren, twenty-four, nurse in the Children's Hospital, who was instantly killed by a trolley car on Huntington avenue, near Cumberland street, when she stooped to pick up a package she had dropped.

Miss Margaret Oldersuist, Miss Farren's companion who also is a nurse at the same hospital and roomed with the dead girl, became so hysterical that she had to be taken to City Hospital for treatment.

RIVAL FOUND IN SEARCH FOR HEIRESS

Briggs' Love Letters Read by Police; Pin Parentage of Two on Him

over marriage just before she dropped out of sight.

As a result of information obtained by the police, both murder and suicide theories were considered tenable. It is now believed only the discovery of the body will solve the problem.

Considerable interest was manifested by the police in bundles of love letters written to Briggs by girls, among them scores from Dorothy Dudley.

These letters, the accumulation of four years, together with description of his rivals, were found by the police in Briggs' safety deposit vault in a Brockton bank.

A feature of the descriptions of rivals was a crudely drawn picturization of a misshapen hand, said to have been made by Briggs on his return from a Brockton "soft light" dance hall.

BRIGGS IS GRILLED.

The owner of the hand had approached Dorothy it is said, and discussed with her previous good times they had together.

Pale and nervous but maintaining his innocence of the girl's whereabouts since she fled from him into West Abington woods a week ago Sunday night, Briggs emerged from the office of District Attorney Wilbar in Brockton courthouse late last night.

It was the fourth time in ten days that he has been questioned by State Detective Albert Brouillard of Whitman and Chief of Police Henry Nickerson of Abington, who are conducting the probe of the Dudley girl's mysterious disappearance.

It was upon information furnished by the Boston Evening American concerning the disappearance of another girl friend of Briggs for a period of months in 1924 that the police concentrated their grilling of Briggs last night.

FOUGHT ABOUT OTHER GIRL.

A girl resident of a Plymouth county town over whom Dorothy Dudley and Briggs fought incessantly during the past two months was accompanied to a Boston rooming house and later to a farm in East Kingston, N. H., where she and her new born child could be boarded for several weeks, the police have learned.

Later Briggs entered into a compact to aid in the support of this child, the authorities have learned.

In the belief that the missing Dudley girl may now be in seclusion in one of several towns where Briggs has friends, Chief Nickerson and State Detective Brouillard have asked police in these places to search for her.

If no tangible "lead" is obtained by Saturday, Chief of Police Nickerson of Abington will lead a large posse of 100 Abington police, firemen and Boy Scouts into the 100-acre tract of swamp and woodland where Dorothy vanished into oblivion after a quarrel with Briggs over other girls and his failure to marry her.

UNFINISHED LETTER.

The authorities now state they know that Dorothy had ample motive to carry out her oft-repeated threat to "do something desperate" if Briggs maintained his attitude toward her.

A copy of an unfinished letter was found among Dorothy's effects in the home of Wallace Bragg, retired Brockton furniture man, where she made her home.

The police gave the letter and other writings of the missing girl to her aunt, Miss Sarah Dudley, of Bridgewater.

The letter addressed to Mrs. Walter Dudley of Tacoma, Wash., the girl's mother, reads:

"Dear Mother:

"I would like to have you mail my divorce papers to me care of Brockton General Delivery. My addresses are so uncertain.

"The papers may not be of any use, for I am afraid that Ernest will back out of his promise even after he sees them.

"I am not going to give you any news and just now I don't want any from you."

Here the letter ended abruptly though a few more words were written and carefully erased.

GIRL IS MINISTER'S "MAIL BRIDE"

State Engineers' Wage Fight Up to Legislature

600 LIKELY TO JOIN IN FIGHT

State Association Leaders Rallying Ranks for Higher Wages

State engineers of Massachusetts will carry their fight for higher wages, born of the action of one of their number, in resigning to become a laborer because there is more money for less work in the latter job, to the Legislature.

This was decided on at the last meeting of the newly incorporated body, which will number more than 600 in a short time, according to the leaders.

Experts of classification of personnel in the Federal government will be called in to give their opinion as to the prevailing wage scale here for highly trained technical men, and former Attorney-General Herbert Parker has been secured to represent the engineers as counsel.

The engineers are ready to carry their request for re-arrangement of salaries to the Governor and Council, and then to the Legislature, if such a move is necessary.

SCOPES TRIAL A TRAGEDY, ASSERTS DR. M'CONAUGHY

Middletown, Ct., Sept. 24 (A.P.)—Speaking on "College Individuality," President James L. McConaughy made a plea for greater individuality among students at Wesleyan University. Such individuality, he struction submerging student individuality. He commented on the Scopes case, characterizing it as "the tragedy of Dayton." "The tragedy," he said, "was not the ill-considered un-American State law nor the rampant lawyer for the defence, nor the tragic figure of the Great Commoner, for whom religion was a matter of the heart only instead of the heart and head. The real tragedy was the thought that Christianity, which gives the largest opportunity to true individuality, can be defined by statute and imposed by a court."

GIRL, 'MAIL BRIDE' OF PASTOR

Ceremony in Jamaica Plain Church Culminates 6-Year Courtship by Letter

Their courtship was by mail so it's all right for them to play postoffice on their honeymoon, averred Rev. and Mrs. Rudolph J. Keyl after their marriage at Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church, Jamaica Plain.

The pretty wedding, celebrated by the groom's father, Rev. Theodore S. Keyl of Newark, N. J., marked the culmination of a romance carried on with the aid of Uncle Sam.

Rudolph Keyl and Ida C. E. Dickhaut were boy and girl sweethearts in Jamaica Plain some six years ago. Then young Keyl went to St. Louis to study for the ministry, while his "girl" stayed at home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dickhaut, of No. 130 School street.

Letters almost daily between the two kept up the romance. Immediately after his graduation from the divinity school young Keyl was called to a Florida pastorate. Again came the daily exchange of letters.

Then, after six years, the young minister came back to his home town and renewed his first-hand acquaintance with his schoolday sweetheart. Their engagement was announced and the wedding celebrated in a short time, as the pastor's congregation is calling him back to the Southern town.

Davis said his wife demanded he give her a separate income of $500 monthly, insure his life in her favor for $50,000 and make a will leaving all his property to her. He told the court that his income was $300 a month.

MARRY AFTER 6 YEARS' MAIL COURTSHIP

The Rev. Rudolph J. Keyl married Miss Ida C. E. Dickhaut of Jamaica Plain after a six-year courtship by mail. The ceremony was performed by the groom's father, the Rev. Theodore S. Keyl of Newark, N. J., in Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church, Jamaica Plain.

REVERE STORE LOOTED AS WOMAN LOOKS ON

Shortly before midnight a woman who was passing the cloak and suit store of Hattie Vinable at No. 160 Shirley avenue, Revere, saw four men in the store seemingly removing the stock.

She notified the police, but by the time they arrived the men and an auto which was standing in the street nearby had disappeared. It was found that fifty dresses and twenty coats valued at more than $500 had been taken.

INVESTIGATE MARKET ROOF THEFT

Marketmen in Quincy Market gave such a rousing reception to Teddy Glynn, when their former co-worker appeared before them as mayoralty candidate, that they took the roof right off the building.

Or if they didn't somebody did, for practically the whole roof is gone, and there is a scandal on in the quarters of the Finance Commission.

During the repairs made on the roof after the fire last May, some $4,000 worth of copper flashings, gutters, and trimmings disappeared. Now the Fin Com wants to know how come, and as a result, that investigating body has sent out its sleuths and has called before it various officials of the city, including Building Superintendent John P. Englert, who is confined to his home by illness, Inspector Cornelius Sullivan, Supervisor Edward W. Roemer and others.

Reports have it that Superintendent Michael Crowley is to assign a squad of men to guard the sacred rooster—not codfish—on top of City Hall, while the State police will lend a detail to keep day and night vigil at the State House lest somebody steal the gilding off the dome.

MOTHER BATTLING TO REGAIN HER CHILD

She was singing—a frail, thin voice, plaintive and sweet. The voice of a little girl in idle dreaming, whose childish prattling wisped through the fluttering leaves of the backwoods of Hingham something about a dollie, a doggie, too; that she was happy and maybe some day she'd have a sweetheart, cute.

Alice Leary was happy. At least she was experiencing what to her seemed the greatest moments of her life.

In the great out of doors with abounding room to romp and revel as do all children; with her two dogs, Prince and Peggy, to help her tear through the woods, around the barn and over the hill, baby Alice was happy, supremely so.

Alice is the centre of a stormy battle between her real mother, Mrs. Mary Leary and Mrs. Catherine Ahern, the woman with whom Alice is being given a chance to enjoy life.

Mrs. Leary claims the Aherns have control of her daughter under the false pretence that she was placed in their care. Mrs. Ahern denies this.

According to Mrs. Ahern she took the child last December, when Mrs. Leary found it necessary to place the child.

ALL CHARLTON TOWN BOOKS BEING AUDITED

Today at the State House there was begun a complete audit of the town books of Charlton, the town finances of which are in a muddle due to the suicide of Town Treasurer Harris Dodge and the burning of many of his papers.

Theodore N. Waddell, director of the division of accounts, had the books brought to the State House. Also, he made it evident that the Charlton selectmen never suspected anything wrong with Dodge's accounts. They had not called in the State auditors. The latter reached Charlton, thereby causing the suicide, only on their regular course, according to law, of looking over the books of each town once in three years.

Meanwhile, in Charlton, teachers, clerks, laborers, in fact, all those holding town positions, will receive no pay next Saturday, in the opinion of the town fathers.

It has always been the custom to pay the town workers on the last Saturday of the month, which for September is next Saturday. However, the finances of the town are in such a fumbled state since the tragedy, that it seems extremely unlikely that the workers will receive their pay.

The town fathers fear that if they write the checks for salaries there will not be enough money in bank to meet them. An investigation has been started to find out just how much money remains to the credit of the town in the various banks in which the money was kept.

Damascus, Syria, Sept. 24 (A.P.).—A French column has entered Suedia, relieving a garrison besieged for nearly two months by revolting Druse tribesmen.

After an eight-hour battle the tribesmen fled before the troops of General Gamelin.

The garrison of Suedia entered the citadel on July 22 and had held the fort since that time, despite violent attacks by the enemy, shortage of water and provisions and lack of hospital accommodations.

O'BRIEN MAILS CIRCULARS TO EX-JURYMEN

Adopts New Method to Line Up Voters in Fight for Mayoralty

While the question of the candidacies of John F. Fitzgerald and General Edward L. Logan are still the high lights in the dizzy mayoral fight, District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien leaps into a place in the spotlight with the latest report that is current in the places where politics is discussed.

The district attorney mayoral candidate has, according to this report, circularized every person who sat on a Suffolk County jury during his regime, setting forth his merits as district attorney and his qualifications as mayor of Boston.

The report does not go so far as to state that Sheriff John A. Kelther has sent campaign literature to the criminals and near-criminals who have rested for more or less lengthy stays at his stone house on Charles street, but the political wiseacres contend that such a move on the sheriff's part would be quite as logical as that of the district attorney.

GUESSES, NO MORE.

If the district attorney, they argue, had sent his circulars simply to the various grand jurors who proved themselves amenable to the O'Brien regime it might have been a good political move, but the regular juries showed themselves not wholly at one with the O'Brien office.

Guesses as to the Fitzgerald and Logan candidacies differ according to the beliefs and political tenets of the guessers. There are those who say that Logan is out as far as the Good Government endorsement is concerned and that either O'Brien or Malcolm Nichols is in. But that again is only a guess.

Senator Billy Francis of Charlestown comes to the aid of the suggestion that the Democratic Senators and Representatives meeet to pick one man to represent the real Democratic vote of Boston, and thus assure the city of not having a Republican Mayor in a Democratic city.

SCHOOL BOARD INDORSEMENTS

The Democratic City Committee itself suggests a meeting at which the various candidates may present their qualifications, for the purpose of picking a compromise candidate.

The campaign committee of General John H. Dunn now files its membership. It is formed of Joseph J. Nolan, James R. Flanagan, Bernard A. McMahon, Mrs. Ida Cooper, and Mrs. William J. O'Keefe.

Even in the heat of the mayoral contest contest applicants for the positions on the City Council and the School Committee are raising their voices everywhere, and the Public School Association has come out with its endorsement of five candidates for the committee: Mrs. Jennie L. Barron, Dr. Frederick L. Bogan, William C. Maguire, George H. McDermott and Francis C. Gray.

HARVARD TO RUN CHURCH SCHOOL

The theological school in Harvard University will open as scheduled on September 28, despite the recent decision of the Supreme Court, according to a statement today by Dean Willard L. Sperry of the Harvard Theological School.

Dean Sperry said no advice has been received from counsel as to the effect of the decision barring the plan of affiliation between Andover Theological Seminary and Harvard Divinity School.

The statement expressed the hope that the ultimate decision of the case will be such that the school may continue and finish the present academic year. If necessary, however, a readjustment can be made without serious interruption of academic work.

LONDON BEAUTY PLANS FOR NEW DASH TO SEA

Mme. Casares Refits Craft for Trip to America's Famous "Rum Row"

London, Sept. 24.—From the role of world's champion lady rum runner, Madame Gloria De Vere Casares, has come along fast in the past few weeks, until today she acquired new fame as the most pursued woman in the British kingdom.

The beautiful rum runner, whose liquor cargo was seized on her schooner General Berrett, early in the month, but who battled successfully in the courts a charge of receiving the liquor under false pretenses from an Oxford street firm, is being pursued by men—American movie magnates.

One and all they want her signature on the dotted line and there is every evidence that the staggering figures thrust on every hand beneath her pert nose may soon bring her appearances in the flickering films of Yankeeland.

Newspaper and magazines are also after her with flattering offers for her life story and other serial articles.

Meanwhile Mme. Casares following the court decision in her favor and the release from arrest, has been putting in her spare time between flights from the magnates by outfitting her schooner with a new crew, preparatory to another dash to one of the rum fleets swinging at anchor off the arid American coast.

LETS RUM RING RUN 5 MONTHS TO SMASH IT

U. S. Raiders Nab 27 Higher-ups In Drive, but a Former Hub Man, in Charge, Flees

New York, Sept. 24—(A. P.)—What is officially regarded as the biggest bootleg ring in the country has been smashed after being allowed to operate five months while a regiment of Federal agents obtained evidence on which they hope to convict 27 men of conspiracy to violate the dry law.

Raiders of the new dry regime of Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews invaded two office buildings simultaneously in the theatrical district at Times Square and arrested 13 men. Warrants for 14 more remain to be served.

The ring was doing business in the guise of a real estate firm. Federal authorities learned of the ring through the seizure of the steamer Manitaco off Astoria, L. I., in April with 500 cases of liquor, after she had come through the coast guard blockade disguised with lumber piled on deck.

The trail led to Irving Wexler, alias Waxie Cordon, who fled to Europe with his wife.

Three of Wexler's lieutenants were arrested. The ring is said to have maintained purchasing agents in Nova Scotia, leased warehouses in the United States and sold choice liquors to Broadway cafes and habitues. Records of customers also were seized.

The raiders nabbed the higher-ups and let the small fry go. More than a score of all-night cabarets have been padlocked.

Wexler, or Waxie Gordon, has a criminal record, dating to 1907, Federal authorities said. He has been arrested in Boston, Philadelphia and New York, on charges ranging from grand larceny to suspicion of murder.

Smugglers Plan to Flood U. S. With Holiday Rum

Washington, Sept. 24 (I.N.S.).—Rum smugglers are mobilizing for a heavy attack on the Atlantic coast with a promise to thirsty Americans for a merry holiday season, Treasury agents said today.

Twenty or more ships are being outfitted at Lunenberg, N. S., the British liquor base, while others are loading at Nassau, St. Pierre, N. S., Havana and other whisky centers.

Reports from special investigators who went to Halifax disclose that American money is backing the new smuggling ventures.

'CHARLESTON' NOT SO NAUGHTY

Frank Small and Virginia Bacon are shown doing the steps of the "Ballroom Charleston." They are members of Ned Wayburn's dancing school.

"Charleston—Charleston—
That's all they say—
That's all they play—"

The words were hummed and beat out to the tune of dancing feet up in Ned Wayburn's rooms in the Touraine Hotel, where he is making his headquarters while visiting Boston to conquer terpsichorean circles with the latest dance craze.

"I am going to prove that the Charleston is neither vulgar nor distorted, and can be danced in the ballroom as well as on the stage by professionals," stated Mr. Wayburn. "It is the dance of the hour and the dance of the day, and I prophesy a greater life for the Charleston than either the tango or fox-trot achieved.

"Over three years ago Sissle and Blake brought a little colored boy to my studios and he performed two dances, which were the origin of the Charleston today. It is a dance for old and young alike—for men as well as women. Over 60 per cent. of my pupils are society people learning the dance for pure pleasure, and this afternoon I intend to teach 200 Boston and New England dancing instructors the Charleston.

The smoothly gliding dancers illustrated that the Charleston is perfectly capable of being danced in the ballroom, and devoid of superfluous wriggles and swaying, is quite a calm affair.

Hanover, Sept. 24.—Curfew will not ring tonight, nor for some nights to come unless workers get busy on the bell in the steeple of the Second Congregational Church.

'MISTER A' IS KING NOW

Lahore, India, Sept. 24 (I.N.S.).—Sir Hari Singh, the "Mr. A" of Great Britain's most celebrated blackmail case, today became the ruler of a kingdom, on the death of his uncle, the Maharajah of Kashmir and Jammu.

The old maharajah, Pratab Singh Indar Mahindar Bahdur Sipa-I-Sultanat, was seventy-six years old. Sir Hari will rule an area of nearly 8,000 square miles with 3,000,000 inhabitants.

Sir Hari was the victim of a $1,500,000 blackmail plot, which was successful in collecting half that amount from the rich young prince of India. He paid to buy silence regarding his escapade in a Paris Hotel with Mrs. Maude Robinson, comely wife of a London bookmaker.

The succession of Sir Hari Singh to the throne must have the formal recognition of the British government.

The feeling against Singh for his adventures in London and Paris has aroused opposition in some quarters, but it was taken for granted that recognition would be granted.

RIFFS SUFFER HEAVY LOSS

Paris, Sept. 24 (A.P.).—A dispatch to the Journal from Madrid says that the Riffians on the west coast of the Bay of Alhucemas, after their defeat, in which they lost heavily, are entrenching in positions prepared in advance, with the object of blocking the Spanish advance.

The Spanish command expects a reaction by the enemy, but has made arrangements to meet it.

The correspondent adds that the Spanish troops will take a three days' rest, after which they will continue their movement toward Ajdir, from which place they are now only between 3½ and 4 miles.

The capture of Ajdir, however, will not end the Alhucemas campaign, for the warfare then will be transferred into the mountains.

King Alfonso has sent congratulations to General Primo de Rivera, commander-in-chief, and General Sanjurjo, for the success of the operation.

Eastern Yacht Club Closes Monday After Busy Season

Most North Shore Colonists Leave for Winter Homes Though Some Stay on to October.

Betty Alden

PENNANTS flutter down and shutters go up on Monday, at the hospitable Eastern Yacht Club on Marblehead Neck, marking the official closing and the end of a brilliant season. Afloat and ashore, both at racing and festivity, it's been a top-notcher, so everyone agrees.

THE HANDSOME FLAGSHIP, "Queen Mab," winner of many cups and prizes, goes into Winter quarters, and until another Summer rolls around will not be seen swinging at her mooring at the mouth of Marblehead harbor, the admiral of all observers at the rock-bound and justly famous port.

COMMODORE NATHANIEL FARWELL AYER and Mrs. Ayer have left their Summer habitat, "Old Wharf House," out on Peach's Point just beyond Barnegat (on the harbor side of town) and are at Mrs. Ayer's Hopedale estate. Other Summer-time residents famous in yachting circles are scattering hither and yon.

THE HERBERT E. YERXAS have left their apartments in the club's annex. Also Mr. and Mrs. James Cunningham Gray, their son and daughter, Cunningham Gray and Miss Katharine Gray, go up soon. Mr. Gray, as chairman of the regatta committee, was an extremely busy person during the just ended racing season.

EDWIN A. BOARDMAN'S family leaves the Shore to embark for Europe. The Boardmans, clever sailors, have the yacht "Snipe" flying the Eastern fleg. Miss Isabel Boardman and Miss Elvira Boardman are the daughters.

IT IS MR. BOARDMAN'S brother, by the way, none other than "Dicky" Boardman, who is now being fairly deluged with congratulations on his win for America in the six-metre races just sailed down at Oyster Bay, against the Scandinavians.

MRS. HARRY K. WHITE comes townward to prepare for the presentation of her daughter, Miss Harriet White. The White Winter establishment is in Gloucester street, with a Summer address at "The Ledges," down at Annisquam. Miss Harriet White makes her debut on November 18, at a tea.

SPEAKING OF DEPARTURES, a large circle regrets saying goodby to Mrs. Louis R. De Steiguer and Rear Admiral De Steiguer, delightful representatives of the Navy who have made so many friends during their stay at Commandant's House in the Navy Yard.

THE DE STEIGUERS leave some time in October, the date as yet uncertain. Mrs. De Steiguer goes to the West coast, and the Admiral takes up sea duties following a stay ashore. In all probability Mrs. De Steiguer will spend the Winter in California, taking up her residence wherever her husband is stationed, in the delightfully nomadic way of life for Navy households.

SAW HANGING BECAUSE IT WAS "HER DUTY"

Glasgow, Sept. 24 (A.P.).—Mrs. Mary Bell, a white-haired, elderly holder of the office of bailie today witnessed the hanging of a man because she thought women office-holders should not shirk their duty.

Under the statutes a bailie is required to attend all executions, but other officials found a loop-hole in the law for her and advised her not to witness the hanging.

She insisted that women elected to office should not confine their official tasks to pleasing ones.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE is level-headed, with common sense. Very likely he would tell Western Europe and the Turks to fight it out at their leisure. But Coolidge will have successors. You know to what extent Woodrow Wilson endeavored to speak for the United States, how he kept money for the United States, and made promises for the United States.

Who can tell what another President, with a fondness for war, or a desire to be important, might do?

VICTORIA WOODHULL, still living in London, aged 88, has given her beautiful manor house to the Sulgrave committee of the Anglo-American Society. To this generation the name Victoria Woodhull means nothing. It means a good deal to the few remaining "oldest living reporters," sent by Dr. Wood, and later by John Bogart of the Sun, to interview Victoria Woodhull and her sister genius, Tennessee Claflin.

IN DAYS of long ago they were the only two women in Wall Street when Jay Gould was active. Stokes was shooting Fiske, and Russell Sage beginning to sell "puts and calls."

Think of a day when there wasn't a female stenographer or a typewriting machine in Wall Street, not a woman employed in any of the big banks and offices, only Tennessee Claflin and Victoria Woodhull, telling financiers what spirits said.

CHINA, YOU MAY be interested to hear, is hanging bandits in Shanghai. For a while a disorganized government was unable to furnish hangmen and protection for the hangings.

Partial order being restored, twelve Chinese robbers were hanged before thousands of spectators yesterday, after having been paraded through the streets. Six will be hanged every day for the next thirty days.

CHINESE TAKE death calmly. When criminals are sentenced to be beheaded, a dozen or more will walk out, kneel down in a row, and wait for the headsman to come along and chop their heads off, not one trying to escape. They are not nervous.

LONDON IS agitated because the great art collection of Lord Leverhulme, successful soap maker, is to be sold in New York city, not in London.

This is said to mean that the art centre of the world has moved from London to New York, but that isn't so.

The MONEY centre has moved, and in 1925, as in the days of the Medici, art goes where money is.

Washington, Sept. 24 (A. P.).—M. L. Heide of New York, who related in his income tax report for 1919 that he had lost $3,770.60 playing bridge, has lost his appeal to have that sum exempted from tax.

The Internal Revenue Bureau previously had disallowed the claims and the Board of Tax Appeals has sustained that decision.

PHONE CALLS FALLING OFF, SAYS EXPERT

Present Business Insufficient to Meet Building Program, Says Goodell

That the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company, which has added nearly a $9,000,000 annual burden to the people's pocketbooks in Massachusetts as a result of the kindness of the Public Utilities Commission, is evidently not getting the growth in calls required to keep up with its extravagant building program is the contention of Alfred Putnam Goodell, efficiency engineer and graphic studies expert.

Mr. Goodell has written a second article for today's Boston Evening American in order that readers may understand why and how they are being "gyped" by the telephone trust.

He says the New England company is depending on service and installation charges and increased rates to keep the ball rolling on account of the fact that the company is not getting sufficient growth in calls to keep up with its extravagant building program.

In other words telephone subscribers of today are paying for the improvements in isolated places that the company expects will turn in profits some time in the dim future.

Mr. Goodell's second article follows:

By ALFRED PUTNAM GOODELL

Uncertainty in handling an enterprise, is usually adjusted by competition, weeding out the inefficient (unfit), but when competition is eliminated by the establishment of a State protected monopoly and might permitted to make right, unless friends of the public intercede, one of two things is certain to happen: either the company's product will be superceded by a substitute or the demand drop until the public boycott or withdrawal of buying forces a re-organization which means a squeezing out of the water and the wiping out of inefficiency.

New England investors have been subjected to this many times. I have viewed the telephone situation from every angle and, rather than enter into a controversial study of rates which the company is fully prepared to defend, I have taken a straightway course and am presenting the most glaring defects in telephone operation.

The company bases its whole financial structure on services installed regardless whether or not there is an assured profitable business to result therefrom and for a predetermined length of time.

NOT SELF SUSTAINING.

In this way thousands of telephones that are not self sustaining (on a call basis) are carried on service charge which is yearly placing the telephone more and more on an ornamental rather than a useful basis.

Of course if we discard calls altogether and put all phones on a flat, monthly basis, and for unlimited calls, we must greatly increase the present service charge and calls supplied with it which do not count until they appear through the desk slips of the operator.

If we gauge the telephone on a call basis, purely, the cost of calls must increase until it reaches a point where only those needing and able to pay for the privilege can afford to put in a telephone.

In other words the company cannot continue putting in telephones at a cost of $152.01 each, plus enormous overhead, etc., without an assured income.

PERPETUAL USE.

Now, if the service charge and calls cost are combined, the service charge should cover all carrying charges per phone on a perpetual use basis regardless of calls, and the calls cost be figured on labor and operating expenses apportioned to the demand for calls in each exchange area.

As long as the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company's installation losses are running as high as 68 per cent. (equivalent) of new phones put out each year, there can be no stability on which to build a system of equitable charges.

For one thing, because those areas where losses are greatest may show the greatest return per phone, and those areas where installation losses are least may show the fewest calls per phone and are, therefore, the least profitable; so, as the company apparently keeps no record of phone identities, that is, no record of the individual earnings of the telephone instruments, tariffs can never be stabilized to make up for this fluctuation in installations and calls; and to make up for this deficiency, or rather inability, to gauge accurately demand and supply in this industry, the company must keep continually raising funds and, eventually, rates.

CRUX OF SITUATION.

This failure to apply a formula to determine the safety working factor keeps the whole works stirred up and nobody knows where they are at except to cover the general proposition that enough money must be kept rolling in to pay dividends, taxes, interest, labor, overhead, depreciation, etc., and enough going out to put in phones and more phones, regardless of the responsibility of the subscribers or probable continuance of the service.

Figures prove our contention that the earnings do not follow the volume of calls, which is the crux of this whole situation.

We find that for the year 1924, notwithstanding that calls fell off 16,538,126 below the 1923 business, the gross exchange income increased $2,451,676 which plainly shows that the exchange calls income (local phone rates) must have been sufficient but the calls were deficient to produce this sum on the 1923 business rate.

Had the same rate of increase in exchange calls been maintained in 1924, as in 1923 over 1922, and at the income rate per call of 1924, the company all the time claiming that the demand business growth is jumping by leaps and bounds, the gross exchange call income would have been $11,248,680 or an increase of $4,343,630 over the figures for 1924.

ON SERVICE CHARGE.

Evidently the company is not getting the growth in calls required to keep up with its building program and is depending on service charge, installation charges and increased rates to keep the ball rolling.

The increased cost for 1924, and less business (fewer calls) than in 1923, make the increased gross earnings all the more mysterious, and this irregularity should be shown up in some form.

(Another article by Mr. Goodell will appear in tomorrow's Boston Evening American).

'FRISCO PLANS BIG WELCOME FOR FLIERS

San Francisco, Sept. 24.—A demonstration, the like of which has not been witnessed since San Francisco's sons returned home from France will be accorded Commander John Rodgers and his crew of intrepid aviators of the PN-9 No. 1 when they arrive this morning from Honolulu aboard the battleship Idaho.

On August 31 the PN-9 No. 1 flew out through the historic Golden Gate at 100 miles an hour on her flight to Honolulu, which ended almost within sight of the picturesque islands when lack of gasoline forced them down.

This morning, when they pass in through the Golden Gate on board the Idaho, they will receive the same enthusiastic reception as on the day they departed, when thousands gathered to bid them godspeed.

Each of the intrepid fliers—Commander Rodgers, Lieutenant Byron J. Connell, S. R. Pope, Otto G. Stanix and W. H. Bowlin, will make addresses at the City Hall, where Mayor Rolph will present them with gold honor medals.

A luncheon at the Commercial Club, tea at a downtown hotel, under the auspices of the city's clubwomen, and a banquet in the evening will make up the program for the day.

LEVER PAYROLL HOLDUP CASE RESUMED

Four Testify Man Accused of Crime Spent Day at L Street Bath

With a seemingly strong alibi for John R. Allen of Roxbury before the court, the case against the Rox-bury man charged with holding up Harold Conceney, messenger of the First National Bank of Boston, was resumed today in Middlesex Superior Court.

Allen is accused of taking the Lever Brothers payroll, amounting to more than $23,000, from the messenger at gun point on May 14 last.

Four men testified Allen spent virtually the whole day at L street baths, and all agreed that he wore a gray suit and a gray cap. The man who figured in the holdup wore a brown soft hat and a light overcoat, articles of clothing which Allen said he never owned.

The chauffeur of the bank car and the guard have identified Allen as the holdup man.

MYSTERY VEILS TRAGIC DEATH OF BABE

Augustine Purpura, 18 Months Old, Killed in Front of Home

Quincy police are attempting to determine what caused the death of baby Augustine Purpura, one and a half years old, whose body, covered with blood, was found just outside her home in Baxter place.

A little girl ran into the Purpura home and told the startled parents that their child was lying on the sidewalk, "all cut." They found the little one dead, a great gash in her head showing how death had come.

At first it was believed that she had been the victim of some truck driver who had gone on without waiting to see what harm he had caused, but none of the neighbors had seen a truck pass. Then the police found a can covered with blood. It lay close to a projecting water pipe, and the police theory is that the baby stumbled over the pipe and struck her head upon the can as she fell.

DIAMOND LURE LANDS BEST LONG TERM

Tremont Street Jeweler's Tray Vanished During Brief Absence

Albert Best's inordinate passion for diamonds will cost him a long career in prison. He starts in today to serve from three to five years in Charlestown for a Boston robbery, while Chicago and Atlantic City are waiting to greet him with open prison doors when he finishes his time.

Best took advantage of an obliging jeweler, Edward Levine of No. 118 Tremont street. Levine had taken a tray of diamonds several times to Best's office, as the latter said he wished to buy a bracelet for his wife. Finally Best insisted that he also bring a large diamond he wished to purchase for himself.

Levine started to take the tray with him when he made the trip to his own store for the large diamond, but when Best showed his resentment at Levine's distrust of him, the latter went away without the tray rather than offend a promising customer.

Outside Best's office Levine's business judgment caused him to wait some ten minutes to see if Best would rush out with the tray, but as he did not, Levine went on to his store. On his return he found Best and the tray gone.

Best was arrested in New York, where it was found he had lost all his ill-gotten gains on the ponies.

TWO FREED OF KLAN RIOT CHARGES

Easton Officer Claims Gun Found in Auto After Meeting as His

Dedham, Sept. 24.—Perley W. Libbey and Leroy R. Hall, charged with having a revolver in their possession during a Klan riot in Westwood, are free men today, acquitted by a Norfolk County jury, though they had been previously found guilty in the lower court and sentenced to one year in jail.

Libbey and Hall were arrested after the riot in Westwood by Sergeant Hughes of the State police, who had been informed by a Westwood man that either Libbey or Hall had pointed a gun at him from their automobile.

The men denied they had pointed a revolver at anybody, but a revolver and several cartridges were found in their car by Sergeant Hughes. Then Special Officer McLeod of Easton stepped forward and testified that the gun was his, and that he had left it in the car after he had left Libbey and Hall to go to his own home.

VALLEY FALLS MAN BREAKS NECK IN FALL

Pawtucket, R. I., Sept. 24.—Michael McQuiggan, fifty-one, of No. 47 Dexter street, Valley Falls, tripped and fell down a flight of stairs at his home and died soon afterward. The examination by Medical Examiner Alexander Marshall of Ashton, revealed that the fall broke the man's neck. He leaves a wife and three children.

Half Pint Whiskey Destroyed With Formality

New Bedford, Sept. 24.—A half pint of rye whiskey, which could not be given away or sold, kept its owner, Theodore A. Davignon, a retired druggist, of No. 98 County street, Patrolman Albert Livesey and Chief of Police Doherty busy for some time.

This half pint of whiskey belonged to Mr. Davignon as part of the stock of his drug store which he recently sold. Having no druggists' license, he could neither sell nor give away the liquor. Yet the Federal government requires strict account of each drop of liquor sold to druggists by wholesalers.

Patrolman Livesey witnessed Mr. Davignon destroy the whiskey. Now he must make out an affidavit that the liquor was destroyed.

TOO BUSY TO VISIT BROCKTON SAYS DAWES

Brockton, Sept. 24.—Chairman of the fair committee, Walter Rapp, received a telegram from Vice-President Charles G. Dawes stating that he will be unable to attend the Brockton Fair. The telegram was as follows:

"Your letter received on my return from the Pacific coast. Greatly regret that engagements previously made will prevent my acceptance. Kindest personal regards to you and your co-workers and wishing you every success. Charles G. Dawes."

Hand Cut Off

Westfield, Sept. 24—Arthur Currie of Leeds suffered the loss of his left hand in a sawmill accident at North Chester. He was engaged in the mill when his hand was drawn into the gears of the machine.

ASHBURNHAM'S CIVIL WAR AT END, BELIEF

Police Chief Russell Quits After Reinstatement; Fire Force Strike Averted

Ashburnham, Sept. 24.—Ashburnham's civil war is apparently over with the resignation of Chief of Police Elmer W. Russell, who was the storm centre.

This official was deposed by the selectmen after he had been found in a raid on a local gambling house. A stormy town meeting ensued, and then Russell was reappointed chief long enough for him to resign the position.

Patrolman Leon A. Waltz was reappointed on the same condition, and he also resigned. At the same time two patrolmen, Ralph Parkhurst and Lester Elliott, resigned, though there had been no charges brought against them.

At the same time a threatened strike by the town firemen was averted. Fire Chief Clement H. Billings had been acting as special policeman, but the firemen threatened to resign unless he confined his duties to the fire department, and accordingly he was removed as acting special policeman.

SIX ARE CONVICTED ON WHITE SLAVE CHARGE

Six of the eight defendants on trial in the United States District Court on charges of conspiracy to violate the Mann White Slave Act were convicted, after a trial lasting several days. Leon Dion of Sturbridge and Clarence Dion of South Brookfield were acquitted.

The six who were found guilty are Mrs. May Dion, whose home in Sturbridge was raided last May, Florence Wade of Providence, Ruth Gordon of Providence, Joseph Bellanger of Southbridge, Charles Fagan of Providence, and Joseph Betram of Southbridge. Sentence will be passed Monday afternoon.

MAINE UNIVERSALISTS FAVOR PROHIBITION

Bangor, Me., Sept. 24.—Emphasis on the Sunday school as the "accepted and undisputed place for religious education," was placed in resolutions adopted at the closing day's session of the Maine Universalists convention here. Other resolutions adopted expressed the sentiment of the convention against any effort to defeat the enforcement of the prohibitory law; in favor of the Summer visitation series conducted by the church and in favor of the five-year program of the general convention.

HERE'S SAMPLE TO HELP YOU WIN AN AUTO

Can You Write a Better Letter Than This One? If So, You'll Probably Win

By PACKARD BUICK ESSEX.

In connection with the Boston Evening American's effort to sell three automobiles for 2 cents apiece, I promised yesterday to print another specimen letter, picked quite at random from among all that have been received.

In order to buy one of these automobiles for 2 cents, I assume it now is generally known, you must write a letter, of not more than 250 words, on the subject, "Why I Like the Boston Evening American."

JUST A SAMPLE.

"I say "write" a letter, but, of course, you may typewrite it, if you prefer. There is no hard and fast rule about that: the letter may be printed, typewritten, pencilled, pen-and-inked, prepared in whatever way best suits your taste and convenience. The following specimen letter, written by a young woman residing in Allston, happens to have been typewritten. She says:

The following are reasons why I like the Boston Evening American:

It is the most enlightening newspaper, containing the greatest mobilization of facts, of sweeping, all-embracing, neoteric information.

A paper that combines the most varied topics—intimate, romantic, humorous—with a circle of sciences.

A paper that helps us to live day by day, that gives us food for spiritual as well as material existence.

A paper that displays talent with the following various subjects:

Fearless expression of thought.
Philosophy.
Science.
Finance.
Sparkling humor.
Social gossip, local and international.
Household requirements vital to every housekeeper.
A purchasing guide.
Live sports.
Gripping love stories.
Romances in real life.
Stories for old and young.
Music.
Art.
Theatres.
Stars of the stage and cinema.
Travel.
Advertising, fascinating and instructive.
History in the making.

Especially do I enjoy that brilliant column, "Today," without which I count the day lost, since it is an incomparable daily education in social and governmental life, through a master mind, dealing with countless topics of varied interests in a style so clear and simple that its meaning can readily be grasped by anyone.

In short, I find The Boston Evening American a real friend of the people and unquestionably an inspiration to every true American.

CAN YOU DO BETTER?

How do you like that letter, the bid of one of our Allston friends for an opportunity to buy a Packard, a Buick or an Essex for 2 cents?

Do you think you can do better? Why not try?

The three cars are here, a $2,844 Packard sedan, a $1,705.50 Buick sedan, and a $912.50 fully equipped Essex coach, and before many days have elapsed they will be taken away—for 2 cents apiece—by those who write the best three letters on "Why I Like the Boston Evening American."

Going! Going!—will anyone else write a letter?

Keep it within 250 words, remember, and write on only one side of the paper. Send no money. Only the winners pay! They pay 2 cents each. We are going to get 6 cents, for $5,462.34 worth of new automobiles!

Address all letters to "Mr. Packard Buick Essex," in care of the Boston Evening American, No. 5 Winthrop Square, Boston, Mass.

And do be spry!

PETITION FOR PRINCIPAL'S REMOVAL

Parents at Saugus Charge Coldwell Is "Unfit" as School Executive

Irate parents of certain of the pupils in the Robt. Grammar school today circulated a petition through Saugus charging that Archibald Coldwell, of Lynn, is "unfit" to remain as principal of the school.

The cause of the school battle is the latest punishment meted out by Coldwell on Frank S. Russell, thirteen-year-old pupil and Boy Scout.

Coldwell must appear in Lynn District Court on October 3 to answer to the charge of assault and battery upon young Russell.

The boy's aunt, Mrs. John G. Holmes, wife of a former selectman, brought the first complaint that has stirred the town. She said that after the punishment the boy's thighs were covered with welts from the leather strap which principal wielded while he held him with both knees in front of his office. She contends that the punishment was brutal, and that the boy was forced to endure it for a half hour.

Principal Coldwell is a giant of a man, more than six feet in height and weighing more than 200 pounds. He said that the punishment was brutal or that it was continued for a half hour. He said the boy had defied him and he accordingly treated him as one of war by saying: "When he comes back to school I shall punish him again if he is disobedient. If I wanted to be brutal I could have subdued him in two minutes, but I even borrowed a smaller strap than my own from one of the teachers."

Prince Henry Is 'Dead' in Mock Warfare

Somewhere In Wiltshire, Eng., Sept. 24 (A.P.)—Prince Henry, King's third son, was admonished "Killed in action" today by a nurse in the army manoeuvres.

Henry, who is serving with the Blue Army defending London became a "casualty" while leading his troop of Hussars against the tanks and artillery of the Red forces. He capped himself too much and was caught in a hail of artillery fire which wiped out his gallant cavalry squad.

VALUE SURVEY FOR WIDENING KNEELAND ST.

The proposed widening of Kneeland street from Washington street to Atlantic avenue advanced a step further toward actuality with a formal hearing before the Street Commissioners at City Hall.

The city's real estate experts will start at once placing valuations on the land and buildings in the line of widening so that the board may fix the damage awards as soon as possible. It will be a matter of several weeks before this task can be accomplished and the first vote taken concerning commencement of the widening.

BUFFALO EMBLEM OF U. S. FLIERS IN RIFF

Oudjda, Morocco, Sept. 24 (A.P.)—A charging black bull buffalo, painted in an orange circle, is the emblem of the American flyers operating against the Riffs, it was announced today by Lansing C. Holden and Leigh Wade, well known in the counter American art circles of Paris. Their work with the paint brush on the fuselage of their own machines are modern ones which have excited the admiration of the natives.

LAUGHS ARE BIG FEATURE OF FOLLIES

Brilliant Spectacle Overshadowed by Comedy in Ziegfeld's 20th Edition

By NICHOLAS YOUNG.

A LAUGH is sweeter than a tear at any time of the day or [illegible] a giggle more to be desired than an eye-full of Oriental spectacle. All of which was flashed in Mr. Ziegfeld's Follies at the Colonial last night—a panoramic revue made up of girls and gayety.

On the word of the printed program it was Mr. Ziegfeld's twentieth venture in trade marked froth and frolic. Incidentally, perhaps, it was his most cheerful—for comedy exceeded everything else in the evening's catalogue of events.

However, there was more than a lively run of merriment in this chapter of the Follies, though the spirited activities of W. C. Fields and Ray Dooley, and a flock of attending artists, dominated the program. The Ziegfeld flame of color was in evidence at every turn—it flashed and dazzled, but always was subordinate. The prevailing idea was an expanding smile, with hopes, undoubtedly, of a merry chuckle, if not a loud guffaw. No matter how you gauged it, the laughs carried the show, both coming and going.

While the Follies, generally, may be set up as something of an institution in good cheer, each succeeding version has been tagged with its own label. That indicates Mr. Ziegfeld's versatility. The entertainment now unfolded at the Colonial probably is neither the worst nor the best of the long list of Ziegfeld ventures in legs and lingerie. In any event, it fills every need for nocturnal relaxation.

Like a moving picture the program rolls along from one laugh to another interrupted only by brief moments of gorgeous stance and entrancing tableau. M. Fields and Miss Dooley were frequent occupants of the stage, [illegible] also had a hand on Duke Dixie St[illegible] and Edna Leedom exacted more than one laugh from a willing audience while Burns and Walsh, in comedy [illegible] the Tiller girls and a host of lesser [illegible] played faithfully and well.

Ever and [illegible] Peggy Fears glistened with rare satisfaction, passing from dancing show girl of the ensemble to a captivating songstress in the brightest musical number on the bill, "In the Shade of the Alamo." She proved the handy girl of the party.

Art has had its fling with Mr. Ziegfeld—this time he wins by a [illegible]

A Taste of Honey

A Story that Bares the Soul of a Woman, Twice Cheated Out of a Love She Is Forced to Steal

Elspeth has sensed something wrong with Jerrold. As they wait for dinner to be served she turns on him with: "Jerry! What's wrong!"

JERROLD FREYNE, a promising young author who has written a book dealing coldly and calmly with love and marriage, is appointed to a clerkship in the Foreign Legation. ELSPETH VOICEY, a cold-sweet daughter of aristocracy, is his promised bride. While wedding plans are under discussion, Jerrold meets GERDA MASKLYN, wife of his friend. He is stricken by her strange beauty and by her bewitching appeal of person. Immediately he is given a new interpretation of love, vastly different from that he put into his book. The situation is rapidly getting beyond his control, and he finds his cultured philosophy being pushed aside by a feeling blissfully new to him.

CHAPTER 23

JERROLD awakened to find sunlight streaming into the room. He could not at first make out where he was, certainly not in the little bedroom overlooking the livery stable. But then a glance told him the truth, and brought flooding back to his mind the memory of last night.

She lay asleep, every curve and line of her plain to see, a creature of rare beauty, immobile save for the gentle rise and fall of her bosom.

Her face was as pale as ivory, all color fled from it. Her lips were slightly parted, her eyes veiled by the lids faintly flushed with purple. One hand was against her cheek caressingly, the other at her side. Against the vivid patchwork of cushions she seemed a thing of marble, so white and still.

"Shall I wake her?" he thought, and then: "No, she looks like a tired child. There is so much we must say to each other and arrange that she had better sleep until she wakes."

He got up and went over to the window. She would not wake for hours yet. Far better to leave a note telling her where he had gone and when they should meet again. He found a slip of paper on the sideboard and a pencil. He wrote to her, saying that he had gone off to his work and to see Elspeth, concluding with a lover's greeting which, if he had not kept himself in check, would have run to many words.

The note he left on the walnut table. He went over to the divan and stood for a moment looking down at her.

Bending, he kissed her lips lightly and, without turning again to look at her, turned down the Tiber to warm the river.

On reaching the bridge he turned sharply to the New Embankment and, coming to a seat underneath the shady lime-trees which bordered the thoroughfare, seated himself. He was thinking of last night. The memory of it burned at his brain, making him want to spring to his feet and walk bareheaded along the awakening streets, shouting the greatness of his discovery to the world. He longed to stop those who went by and tell them:

"I have learned how to love. I have tasted honey. I have had visions of the power and the glory of real surrender to the call of body and soul." He seemed ten times the stronger man to have found himself to be all at last to visualise his relation to the world.

Gerda had conquered his false reserve, had filled in, amidst the cheerless half-tones of the canvas of his existence all the rich and glowing color which made up the completed picture of a man's life. With her to aid him, what heights could he not scale, what difficulties overcome, what glories achieve in life in literature, in the career he had chosen? Something to live for now a memory, an actuality a promise!

And then Elspeth! The thought of her came as a check to the wave of delight which welled up in him. He would have to see Elspeth at once, of course and tell her just why he wished to break off their engagement. A month ago that would have been easy. No longer under the spell of the Voicey trad

Plenty of Surprises Are Promised as Hub Girl Hurls Questions

Startling questions are hurled at Mrs. Lena Levine of Brookline, in the interrogatories filed by Isabella Smith, who is suing the Levine family for a total of $1,500,000.

The Boston girl demands $500,000 each from Mrs. Levine and her son Harry Levine, saying that they interfered with their son to prevent him carrying out his contract to marry Miss Smith. She sues the son, Louis Levine, for $1,000,000, alleging breach of promise to marry.

In the list of 49 interrogatories Mrs. Levine is asked whether she arranged for an engagement between her son and Ada Poorvu, a cash consideration being involved.

She is also asked if she was introduced to Miss Smith by her son, if her son told her he loved Miss Smith, if she son told her he proposed to marry Miss Smith; if she knew her son was living at the Touraine in 1922-23 if in each of these years she urged her son to break off the engagement between her son and Miss Smith and if she knew that upon that European trip her son had purchased a diamond watch, a sapphire ring, a string of platinum and pearls, a string of pearl pins and a score of other valuable pieces of jewelry.

The mother is asked if she discussed with her son and urged the breaking of the engagement to Miss Smith and if she knew that Louis introduced Miss Smith to his friends as and sisters as his betrothed.

To quickly envelop the whole "bake" the sheet of crackers is specially vented—hence the shape shown in left hand picture.

Note the shape. Three good reasons for the notched sides (patented):
1. Splits in two for sandwiches.
2. Less crumbling.
3. In baking, the notches form many vent-holes in the sheet of crackers: Result—more thorough baking and better flavor.

Vent holes and what they do for the new Sunshine Soda Cracker

THE fate of a covered pie, without its top-crust vents—is ruin. The venting relieves the pressure from the steaming filling.

It is quite as important to vent this soda cracker—but for a different reason. As they bake the heat envelops them quickly—top and bottom.

Now the rate as well as the heat of bak g is important in developing flavor, and this corner V-venting, we find, times the baking to a T or should we say V.

The Full Grain Process

It all starts with the flour, and flour blending is a real job. Keeping the blend always the same is an even harder one.

Again, take the baking temperature, or the question of dough working. You can't under-work it, and you can't over-work it.

It is in perfecting all the steps from flour to package that Sunshine Bakeries have, after months of study, perfected this new soda cracker. Please try them.

PIANOS Vs. POLITICS

Or Why I Am Not Running for MAYOR ---J. P. COLLINS

MAYOR OF BOSTON

is an office worthy of the ambition of any of its citizens. It is the highest office within the gift of the voters of Boston. Present indications are that the voters will have plenty of candidates to choose from at the coming election.

The next Mayor is likely to be THE CHOICE OF A SMALL MINORITY OF THE VOTERS. This situation is made possible by the charter of 1909, inflicted upon the voters of Boston by the rural legislators at the behest of the so-called "reformers."

NON-PARTISANSHIP IN MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS IS HIGHLY DESIRABLE in my opinion. But there is no reason why we cannot have a non-partisan charter which will favor a restoration of municipal affairs in Boston to a partisan basis. Whether a man is a Democrat or a Republican has no bearing upon his fitness to be Mayor of Boston.

WE ARE CONFRONTED WITH A CONDITION AND NOT A THEORY, however. This year's election must be held under the present charter. After the election we can all get together and try to amend it, so that an elimination primary may be held two weeks in advance of the election date at which primary all but the two candidates receiving the highest and next highest number of votes will be eliminated from the contest.

I wish to announce that I am not a candidate for Mayor. I believe I am the first citizen of Boston to announce himself not a candidate. Plenty have announced themselves as candidates. Most of the candidates are persons of ability. I believe all of them are persons of honesty. HONESTY WITHOUT ABILITY doesn't qualify a person to be Mayor. Some of the biggest boobs in the country are perfectly honest. There aren't many honest men in jail but there are plenty of them in institutions for the feeble-minded and insane. ABILITY WITHOUT HONESTY is no qualification for Mayor. There are extremely able men in State's prison and many more who ought to be there. Ability keeps many a crook out of jail.

J. P. COLLINS
New England's Largest Individual Piano Retailer

Boston has been almost uniformly fortunate in being able to secure men of both honesty and ability as her Mayor. Spending over forty millions of dollars a year, and with many great and expensive public improvements projected, it behooves the voters to see that they maintain the same high standard of selection that they have maintained in the past.

THE LEADING CANDIDATES ARE ABLE AND HONEST MEN, EVERY ONE OF THEM. The woman candidate, too, has ability of a high order and her integrity is everywhere conceded.

THE TASK OF THE VOTERS IS THE SELECTION OF THE ABLEST CANDIDATE. A higher tax rate and increased valuation of property is hard on the voters' pocketbooks and they are going to be hard on the candidates. The time has passed, I believe, when a man can get by for public office in Boston simply because he is a "good fellow." When the taxpayers are being called upon each year to pay out an increased amount for the support of their municipal government, to say nothing of the high cost of the state and national governments, they are going to use more care in marking their ballots.

VOTING FOR MAYOR ISN'T LIKE BUYING A PIANO FROM J. P. COLLINS. COLLINS GIVES YOU YOUR MONEY BACK IF YOU ARE NOT SATISFIED WITH YOUR PIANO, BUT IF YOU ARE NOT SATISFIED WITH YOUR MAYOR YOU CAN'T GET YOUR VOTE BACK. YOUR MAYOR, GOOD OR BAD, IS IN FOR FOUR YEARS. Remember that.

There has been considerable talk about the propriety of some candidates retaining their present offices while continuing as candidates for Mayor.

KELIHER, FITZGERALD AND O'BRIEN SHOULD NOT RESIGN. If a workingman should give up one job before securing another, you would say he was foolish. Sheriff Keliher and Registrar of Deeds Fitzgerald occupy offices where their official conduct cannot be influenced by their candidacies for Mayor. A district attorney under some circumstances might be influenced in the conduct of his office by the fact that he is a candidate for another office, but fortunately or unfortunately, during the past couple of years the judges have taken over the function of the district attorney as to the disposition of cases without trial. The judge now exercises the say-so as to whether a case may be nol prossed or filed in Suffolk County, so that there is no danger of Mr. O'Brien using his office to gain support from lawyers who are in politics.

Mr. Nichols resigned his Federal office when he became a candidate for Mayor, but Mr. Nichols was obliged to under the Federal laws. That gallant soldier, Colonel "Jack" Dunn, resigned a good job, misled to suppose he was following the example of Mr. Nichols. My advice to the candidates is, hold on to your present jobs. Jobs, public and private, are scarce and the competition is keen.

AN OFFER: There is nothing to prevent all the candidates from coming together and agreeing to an unofficial elimination primary. I will agree to raise the necessary money to pay for the expense of such a primary. It could be conducted under the unofficial auspices of the Boston election department. Undoubtedly, co-operation, in the interest of fair play, could be secured from Mr. H. H. Boynton, deputy secretary of the commonwealth, in charge of the State primaries and election for many years. This primary could be arranged to take place before the time for withdrawals from the mayoralty race. Then, all but the two highest candidates in the elimination primary could withdraw. Thus, our next Mayor would be the choice of a majority of the voters of the city.

CANDIDATES, WHAT DO YOU SAY TO MY OFFER? ARE YOU WILLING TO PUT THE PUBLIC WELFARE ABOVE PERSONAL AMBITION?

AN OPERATION RECOMMENDED

Avoided by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Los Angeles, Cal.—"I cannot give too much praise to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for what it has done for me. My mother gave it to me when I was girl 14 years old, and ever since then I have taken it when I feel run down or tired. I took it for three months before my two babies were born for I suffered with my back and had spells as if my heart was affected, and it helped me a lot. The doctors told me at one time that I would have to have an operation. I thought I would try 'Pinkham's,' as I call it, first. In two months I was all right and had no operation. I firmly believe 'Pinkham's' cured me. Every one who saw me after that remarked that I looked so well. I only have to take medicine occasionally, not but I always keep a couple of bottles by me. I recommend it to women who speak to me about their health. I have also used your Sanative Wash and like it very much."—Mrs. E. GOULD, 4000 East Side Boulevard, Los Angeles, Cal.

Many letters have been received from women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after operations have been advised.

A recent canvass reports 98 out of every 100 women benefited by

BOSTON RADIO AMERICAN

VOICING THE GREAT VOICE OF DEMOCRACY OF THE AIR

Where are the Braves playing today? Listen in on WNAC at 7:30 and get the latest baseball news from the sports editor of the Boston Evening American.

RADIO SHOW IS TO BE WELL DRESSED

This year's Boston Radio Show, which will open in Mechanics Hall on Columbus Day, promises to be the best dressed radio show ever held. New England Director H. Fairbanks, manager of the show, has announced to give Boston the most beautiful radio show in the decorative standpoint.

In Grand Hall according to F. W. Campbell, head of the Atlantic Division, will be erected a magnificent proscenium arch measuring 90 by 30 feet, in Florentine Louis 16 style. The rear wall of the space where WEEI and WNAC will broadcast day and night programs in full view of the audience, will be Italian in motif, composed of three 30 by 30 panels panels painted by one of Boston's leading artists.

The spaces occupied by the various radio jobbers and dealers will be formed by large Florentine arches, modeled, painted, gilded, and carved top posts at the corners, and decorative front paneled, moulded dividing columns or pilasters.

The stage will be very attractive with arabesque [illegible] ing.

The ceiling in Grand Hall will be composed of huge reproductions of Chinese rugs, 30 by 50 in size, with wide striped drapings 20 by 84, in pale and yellow, extending to bottom of second balcony. The rear wall will be covered with rich drapery. Exhibition Hall will be an arbor's canopy of scenic triangular panels and fabrics, with an artistic center pendant of crystals and floral effects.

The balcony front will be draped with light fabrics and papier mache pave in rich gold and polychrome [illegible] The huge brackets are to be draped in [illegible]

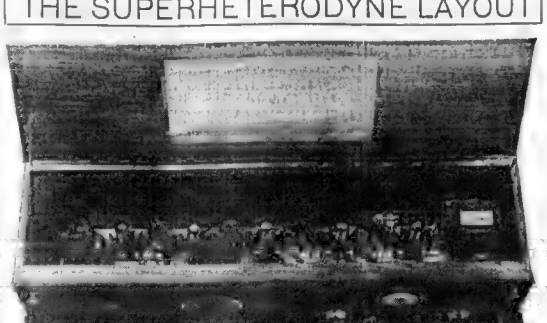
THE SUPERHETERODYNE LAYOUT



Note in this photograph how carefully the parts of the set are arranged. The superheterodyne, while commonly regarded as one of the most difficult of receivers to build, may be made to work very easily if care is taken with the layout. The superheterodyne receiver is so sensitive that it is imperative to keep all grid leads at minimum length. In order to do this the various transformers and coils are placed so that their grid terminals are nearest the adjoining socket. The length of filament and other low potential leads is relatively unimportant—in fact these may be bunched together in a cable for convenience sake.

LISTENERS TO BE SERVED

Widespread comment has been caused by the announcement that the head of a great radio manufacturing company has recently closed contracts aggregating $200,000 under which a group of the world's famous artists will broadcast through Station WEAF, and a chain of relay stations every Sunday evening

INTERESTS OF RADIO.

Mr. Kent, a member of Secretary Hoover's committee on broadcasting problems said he made the arrangements in the interest of better radio programs and as a contribution to the "listening-in" radio world.

"There has been much discussion of the improvement of broadcasting programs," he said, "I have given considerable thought to how that might be done and decided that if it were possible to bring it about the American radio audience should be permitted to hear the best artists the world affords. We had considerable difficulty in securing the services of these artists owing to a variety of obstacles. These, however, have been overcome and I am glad to be able to announce definitely that contracts have been signed under which a large group of the leading artists of the world will be heard on the air each week during the radio season. The broadcasting may be extended if other stations over the country ask permission to join in on the programs. It is also possible that later on we shall arrange for the artists to broadcast directly from stations in different sections of the country.

ALL ARE FAMOUS.

"Practically every one of the artists have made phonograph records," said Mr. Kent, "but only three of them have sung over the radio. I feel that the contracts signed under which they will be heard mark a step in the history of radio broadcasting programs. I believe the millions of listeners who make up the great American radio audience are entitled to the best entertainment the world affords and I have endeavored to give it to them I hope this may be the opening wedge that will lead to the best in everything being heard over the air"

PAULIST FATHERS OPEN NEW RADIO STATION

A brand new radio station, WLWL, operating on a wave length of 328 meters, will be opened in New York today by the Paulist League, of No. 425 West 59th street.

An address will be made by Cardinal Hayes. Other features on the initial program will be Alice Nielsen and Carl Schlegel of Metropolitan Opera Company, Margaret Keyes of Chicago Opera Company, Rinaldo Schinone of Costanzi Opera Company, Maria Montani of Berlin Opera Company, Kitty McLaughlin, John Valentine of Roxys gang and William Stahl, violin soloist of the Rivoli.

WEEKLY CANNING TALK

THE garden begins to look pretty well depleted, doesn't it—and soon we will draw the curtain on our weekly canning chats. I've been wondering what you would like in their place? I'll be waiting for suggestions and the majority will rule.

The first recipe I have for you is one contributed by a member of A. E. A—and it is for canned tomato soup. The recipe I gave you last week was for a thick tomato puree that can be used as a foundation for sauces, soup," and guaranteed "delicious."

[illegible]

7 quarts stewed ripe tomatoes
7 stalks celery cut in inch pieces)
7 sprays parsley (cut up small).
6 bay leaves
11 whole cloves.
2 onions, cut small (medium sized).

Simmer all together until soft, then add 7 tablespoons heated butter that has been blended with 7 tablespoons flour, then add 6 teaspoons salt, ½ cup white granulated sugar and ½ teaspoon pepper. Stir until thick. Rub all through a sieve or fine strainer. Return to fire, and when it has reached the boiling point can in 1 pint hot sterilized jars. Keep in a cool dark place or cellar. Dilute a little when used for soup. Can be used undiluted on spaghetti or toast. Diluted with more water, add gelatine and set aside to harden it can be used for salad.

Next, another contribution from a member in Charlestown, Mrs. A. A. one of our charter members, too, No. 2961. She has no name for the recipe but says "it is most digestible, but rather hard for some of us to assemble."

"Take a dash of water cold
And a little leaven of prayer,
A little bit of sunshine gold
Dissolved in the morning air;
Add to your meal some merriment
And a thought of kith and kin
And then as a prime ingredient
A plenty of work thrown in
But spice it all with the essence of love
And a little whiff of play;
Let a wise old book and a glance above
Complete a well spent day."

And a third contribution from Natick for a simplified quince sauce that does away with all tedious pare ing.

GALLIS QUINCE SAUCE
WNAC

First always place a little tasmoor asbestos mat under an aluminum kettle when cooking anything likely to catch on, as pie, meat, etc. Rub off all fuzz with dry cloth. Wash, quarter and core, reserving all seeds. Cook few at time in little water; skim out into bowl as it is cooked soft as desired. After all fruit is cooked weigh and allow ¾ pound sugar to each pound of fruit. Strain water used in cooking fruit and add the sugar. Boil together to form syrup. Then add the fruit and cook slowly but rich and dark as desired. Seal boiling hot in glass jars. Half a peck of fruit is the amount I do.

Next is a request recipe. A friend in Brockton says "I once ate some red pepper jam and it was delicious. Can you give me the recipe?" Here it is:

Recipe No. 1048
RED PEPPER JAM.
18 large red sweet peppers
1 tablespoonful salt
1 pint vinegar
2 cupfuls sugar

Remove seeds from the peppers and put through the medium knife of the chopper. Sprinkle with salt and let stand 3 or 6 hours. Drain, but in a kettle, and add the vinegar and sugar. Boil gently about 1 hour until thick enough for jam. Pour into sterilized glasses and when cold cover with paraffine. Makes 9 glasses.

And for Mrs. P. M. of Framingham—

Recipe No. 1049
GREEN TOMATO PRESERVES.
2 quarts green tomatoes
2 lemons
10 cupfuls sugar

Wash and slice tomatoes before measuring. Slice the lemons very thin. In a bowl place the tomatoes lemons and sugar in layers. Let stand over night. In the morning cook slowly until the tomatoes are tender and the mixture thickened. The time required will be about 6 hours. This recipe will fill ten half-pint jars

And last, directions for uncooked chopped pickles:

Recipe No. 1050
RUMMAGE PICKLE
2 quarts green tomatoes
2 quarts red tomatoes
2 green peppers
2 red peppers
2 large onions
2 stems red peppers
1 small head cabbage or
1 large ripe cucumber
½ cup salt
2 pints vinegar,
2 pounds brown sugar
1 tsp. mustard
1 tsp. pepper.

Chop all the vegetables and sprinkle with salt. Cover and let stand over night. Next morning drain thoroughly. Add brown sugar, mustard, pepper and vinegar. Cook all together for about 1 hour or until clear. Seal as usual in small jars or bottles large enough to insure one serving if possible. Recipes makes about 2 quarts.

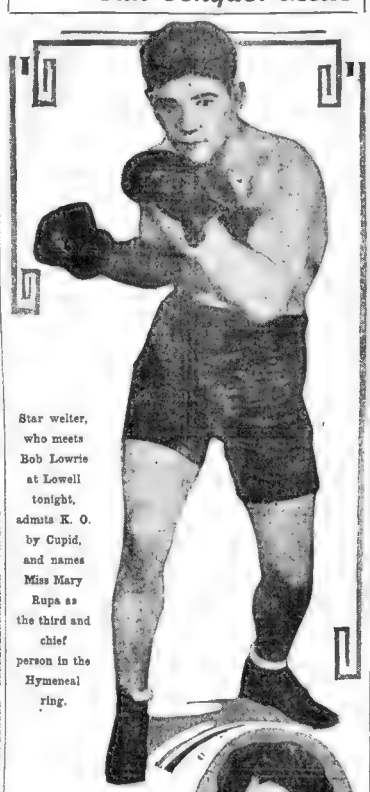
Only Heart Blows Can Conquor Mello



Star welter, who meets Bob Lowrie at Lowell tonight, admits K. O. by Cupid, and names Miss Mary Rupa as the third and chief person in the Hymeneal ring.

By RINGSIDE

Al Mello, ring crusader, will make a stout hearted effort to score his sixth straight knockout when he battles Bob Lewis Scotch welter weight, in a ten round tussle at Lowell tonight.

Scoops White, Phinney Revis, Shawe O'Brien, Billy Brewster and Frankie Quill, have all gone down for the full count before Mello's driving blows.

Lowrie is a better battler than any of the young men conquered by Mello. A year ago Bob gave Eddie Shevlin a close fight. He also made things interesting for Jimmy Jones. Mello is picked to win tonight, but he will have to step lively to finish out front. A knockout seems unlikely.

Sammy Fuller, North End featherweight, will step in with Matty Cirdes of Lynn in a ten-round bout at the Salem A. A. of Salem tomorrow night. These boys recently met at Braves Field, Fuller winning a close decision. Since then Fuller scored a sensational five-round knockout win over Tony Carney.

"Pat McCarthy will knock Cook cuckoo," reads a headline in one of the papers.

"George Cook will fricassee Pat McCarthy to a crisp," is the retort of Walk Miller, new manager of the Antipodean.

Seemingly the fray between these warriors, set for Saturday afternoon at the bike track, Revere, is to have the trimmings of a barbecue.

To the fistic fans it sounds like action to any event, and that is what they want. Against each other McCarthy and Cook have the make up, requisites and inducive to put up a rough, tough, slamming fight. Both are rugged, both can take it and both can sock. In weight there should be but little difference—their height and reach is about the same. There shouldn't be much dizzy side stepping or flashy motions.

There are two big money-making chances ahead for the winner—one a meeting with the victor of the coming fray in this city between King Solomon and Jim Maloney; the second, a mixup with Harry Wills to be staged in Newark, N. J., early next month.

The expectation of securing one or both of these fixtures for Pat McCarthy is what is back of Jim MacDonald's recently announced offer of a gift of $1,000 to Revere Post if the Roxbury Adonis defeats Cook on Saturday.

"Revere Post needs the cash—McCarthy can make plenty if he flattens George Cook. I think he will," is the heavy chorus attached to MacDonald's song, "Optimism."

GREAT WORLD SERIES PARTY FOR FANS

The American League pennant race—games of the Boston Evening American, seated in grandstand seats at baseball parks, will see every play reproduced on a giant score board.

This board will be operated by Jim O'Brien, who is out this year to beat his twenty year record of showing each World Series play a few seconds after it is made. Direct wires from the World Series park to baseball and ball orchard will flash each play as it is made. Announcements will also be made by megaphone.

There will be a band and singers to entertain the crowd before the games begin and in the brief waits between innings.

To every respect the guests of the Boston Evening American at this party will be able to follow the games as closely as if they were in Washington or Pittsburgh watching the actual contests.

The party will be free, the only requisite for admission being that each fan show at the turnstile a copy of the Boston Evening American of the date on which the game is played.

Both President Bob Quinn of the Sox and Vice-President Emil Fuchs of the Braves have joined wholeheartedly in helping to give this party for the baseball fans. Both are real baseball fans themselves.

Both appreciate the loyal support given their clubs by the baseball fans of Boston and New England. They believe that nothing is too good for New England fans.

The schedule of the dates for the series and the parks chosen for those dates follow:

Fenway Park—October 7 and 8
Braves Field—October 9 and 10
Fenway Park—October 12
Braves Field—October 13
Fenway Park—October 14

Further interesting announcements will be made from time to time in these columns. Watch the sport pages closely for details of the biggest baseball celebration ever given.

DARTMOUTH BACKFIELD IS STILL A MYSTERY

TEAM RICH IN FINE LINE MATERIAL

Season Opens Saturday, With Norwich; Harvard Clash Only Month Away

Hanover, N. H., Sept. 24.—(A.P.)—For more than two weeks the thud of the pigskin and an ominous rumble of activity have resounded in the crisp September air on the Dartmouth College athletic field. There, under the eye of Coach Jess Hawley, for two years mentor of Dartmouth teams, the big green football machine has been unlimbering for one of its heaviest campaigns. Eighty candidates have been running through their paces daily.

From this material Coach Hawley has fashioned a stubbly powerful line, almost ideal setup in opposition with that of last year's undefeated eleven. But his backfield remains an unknown, untried quantity, for only one of last season's first string regulars, "Swede" Oberlander, husky star halfback, has returned.

Ten of last year's letter men have been numbered as a veteran nucleus for this year's team. Five are members of the backfield staff has been to develop an almost entirely new set of backs.

Least settled of all left half-back, and Dooley, quarterback, are gone. It has been hoped that "Flash" Fallon, Dooley's understudy, would take his place at quarter, but a recent operation has cost Fallon a season of playing this fall.

LOOMIS AT QUARTER.

Up to the present Loomis, second man in line for the berth left vacant by Dooley, has been the leading contender for the quarterback position. Loomis is a clever field general, a heady player and a good passer. He is also a triple threat man, being a consistent ground gainer and a good punter.

Behind Loomis, Coach Hawley has the choice of Bill Cunningham, Lancaster, Pa., high school star, and Bill Cleveland, Dartmouth freshman sensation of last year. Cunningham is a heavy, hard driving plunging fullback, while Cleveland is a fast, shifty open field runner.

Oberlander, who was shifted to left half last year, is the only veteran back available. He is a hard driving,

HERMAN CONFIDENT HE CAN BEAT ALL COMERS

FINNEGAN BOUT BIG TEST

Jussies With Dundee and Kaplan Will Hang in the Balance

By JACK CONWAY

BOXERS are made over night. Witness the case of Babe Herman, California featherweight. Two months back Herman was glad to step in and fight any feather weight the promoters picked for $75 or $100. Then Babe got a match with Kid Kaplan at Waterbury, Ct. Kaplan had been crowned featherweight champion of the world by the late generous New York Boxing Commission. Herman wanted the bout staged in New York, but Kaplan couldn't agree to such an arrangement. He insisted upon battling in his home State of Connecticut.

Jack Conway

It was said at the time that Kaplan merely wished to play safe. Nobody thought Herman could beat the champion in New York, Connecticut or anywhere else.

Herman then made himself as a ring attraction over night. He won twelve out of the fifteen rounds in his tussle with Kaplan, but only got a draw.

The sport writers were unanimous in declaring Herman had won. This made him a card all over the country. He has signed for bouts which will net him more than $100,000. His tussle here with Honeyboy Finnegan, at the Commercial Club on next Monday night, and his battles with Johnny Dundee and Kid Kaplan, in New York, will be the big money shots.

YOU have to give Herman credit for stepping right out front and tackling all-comers. Keen ring observers say the Finnegan bout is a poor one for Herman. Honeyboy is liable to tip Babe over and knock him out of his matches with Dundee and Kaplan.

Jimmy Keller, Herman's manager, believes fighters to be worthy of the name should tackle the best available opponents. That's why he took the Finnegan match.

MAXEY ROSENBLOOM, New York middleweight, stepped off a train at the South Station and hurried to this office.

"Say, can you tell me where I can find Johnny McGrath, Jim Maloney's manager?" said Maxey. "Johnny promised to meet me at the South Station this morning and solve Boston's cross-word puzzle, otherwise known as streets. I've come over from New York to help train Maloney for his battle with King Solomon at Braves Field on next Thursday night.

"I'll make Maloney step in the gym. You know I walloped Hambone Hefley when he busted into New York last Winter. It was a cinch. Hambone had me on the floor a couple of times in the early rounds, but I came back strong and won the decision. Hambone was yelling for the smelling salts at the end of the mill.

"I SAW Maloney fight Dan Bright in the main bout at the same show. I sing new dim crush blossel over in Jersey. How that baby can sock. I can't understand how King Solomon ever tipped him over. Solomon is only a powder puff puncher. He must have clipped Maloney with a lucky sock. My tip is that Maloney puts over the dream smash next week."

WE directed Rosenbloom to McGrath's headquarters after we learned that the New Yorker went through a stiff work out with Maloney at Kelley & Hayes' Gym. Maloney appears in fine condition. The big fellow is training for his meeting with Solomon true to form for any one who knows Maloney's habits. He realizes he must win to retain his position on the list of leaders.

GEORGE FREEMAN reports that a big entry list for the water sports carnival to be conducted by the Boston Lodge of Elks on the Basin Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 7. There will be classes at 100, 150, 1-6 and 1-4 pounds and the championship division. The proceeds of the show will go to boost the charity fund of the Elks. Chairman George Freeman of the Elks' Athletic committee announces that the prices for tomorrow night's show will be 50 cents, 75 cents and $1.

The amateur show staged in the Elks last week furnished four hours and a half of high grade boxing. Another brilliant show is slated for tomorrow evening.

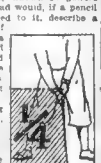
By CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 31 Golf Champions. "Golf Is a Successful Teacher," Says Chick Evans.

It is commonly known by golfers that the clubhead would, if a pencil could be attached to it, describe a complete circle if it were given a correct backward and forward swing with the plane of the swing overlapping at each end but running parallel for the greater part of the circle. This is if you built the club at the address position.



Then divide the wrists backward until the shaft points straight out from you, the hands, you will note, move through about one-fourth of their circular arc. This indicates that the rest of the movement of the club is through arm lifting and shoulder turning, which it is. What the golfer now does is keep this hand action down to the right proportion. The player need hardly go about it as a matter to be accomplished precisely on the above basis, but the quickest road to the right action is found usually through shortening down the back swing. Try it.

FISHER MAKES MANY CHANGES IN SQUAD

By TED LYNCH

Eddie Casey and Bob Fisher of Harvard used a total of 31 players in the first eleven which accounts for the many changes in the various lineups. Fisher desires that it be distinctly understood that these changes were not caused by the recent scrimmages. He merely is trying out new combinations.

The names of Eddie Nash, a tackle; Charley Bradford, a guard; Clem Crosby, and Joe Crosby are now linked with the first team. Crosby is the only one of the quartet that has been mentioned on Team Notes before.

Nash replaced Turner, while Crosby was injected into the back field in place of Howe. Bradford has begun to place at right guard and easily fills in at the vacancy caused by the removal of Cheney to the quarterback position in place of Stafford.

Joe Crosby has taken a lot off the nerves of the harried coaches who were seeking a fast back. Joe by was a remarkable player at Boston Latin and was chosen as an all scholastic back. He continued his good work at Exeter, also on Tommy Campbell's freshman eleven. Next to Mosier he is the fastest man on the Crimson squad, in comparison to Mosier and the burly stands he is merely a waif, but what he lacks in weight is made up in his speed and natural ability.

Gridiron News

Yale varsity scrimmaged in preparation for the game with Princeton next Saturday at the Bowl. Coach Tad Jones has made a few changes in the line-up. Mike Gazella, who was injured in the Fisher game, is back at his old position at left guard. Hollenback and Ellis are still out with injuries. Hardy and Hart are taking their places.

Brown is watching the work of Keefer and Pine with a view to selecting one of them to fill the vacancy caused by the loss of Ted Nash, who won the position at left tackle. It is probable that both will see action, having the other alternate. Nash is afraid of injuring a knee which was hurt in the game against Holy Cross last fall, and for some good time to come he will be out.

Princeton's squad was divided into two groups on Tuesday afternoon, the second squad being given a workout on the field while the first squad went through signal practice. Both squads were given a long rest on Wednesday afternoon, and on Thursday they will be given a light workout. Friday they will be given a long rest.

Holy Cross Hoosiers went through a spirited scrimmage session on the gridiron yesterday afternoon. Coach Jack Barry sent the first team against the second team, and the former succeeded in scoring two touchdowns. Both Hayden Stadium and Lawrence were used for the purpose. Coach Barry was well pleased with the showing made by his proteges, and declared that they looked good at handling the ball over the bars.

Williams is almost ready for the Hamilton game, which takes place on Saturday. Coach Lawrence has made a few changes in the line-up, and Captain Bill Hoyt of the famous Ephs and Jeff Hoyt, the backfield star, are rejoicing that they are recovered from the injury each received at his regular end Saturday.

Georgetown is looking forward to a very successful season, as against last Saturday's game with Washington and Jefferson, when the Blue and Gray will meet the Bucknell eleven, and Captain Jack Hagerty, a flying cyclone, has signed more than [illegible] players this season. "Kathleen wants to see the Stoll and Palace," said the other. "Do you think you could take us up there to call one afternoon, Jerrold?"

"I dare say it could be arranged." He wondered then how things stood between Arakas and himself, whether they would meet again.

Visits Sir Charles.

So they chatted on, working between times. At midday Ravenshoime went in to see Sir Charles. When he came back it was to tell Jerrold that he was expected to lunch at the Legation. "Give my greetings to your Elspeth," said the First Secretary.

Lunch was devoted to the recitation and discussion of Sir Charles' adventures.

Neither Elspeth nor Jerrold spoke much. She was too busy watching him to pay much attention to the subject under discussion, he was too nervously excited.

"What are you doing tonight, Jerry?" she asked him as they went out into the hall.

"Dining out, I'm afraid, my dear. Look here, Elspeth, I want to talk to you some time before this evening."

"Can't you tell me now?"

"No," he answered shortly, "it's too important. When can we meet?"

Tea time?" she asked.

"All right. If you'll be waiting outside at four o'clock, I'll get away from the chancery."

She nodded. "Nothing wrong, Jerry?" She seemed under the influence of some great excitement, for her voice was tremulous as she put the question.

"I'll tell you when I see you," he countered, though the words were so near his lips that it was painful to have to keep them in check.

The frock sketched at the left is of black reps banded with strips of red and silver leather. The smart little sleeveless blouse worn underneath is of plaited white georgette buttoned with tiny round bell pearl buttons.

At the right is sketched a very smart creation from Martial et Armand. It is made of blue satin of a very bright texture of material. The inset bands and buttons are of white crepe de Chine. This model is somewhat complicated in cut, with revers giving a coat touch to the ensemble. The skirt is cut making a full flounce

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By Helen Rowland

IF a man's taste in women were only as good as his choice in houses!

If only he would select the woman with whom he is going to live forever with the same care and intelligence that he shows in buying a house, which he may sell in six months!

A man's house! What a different thing it is from a woman's house!

YOU knew what kind of a house a woman likes—dainty, fussy, frivolous. A house full of cozy corners, closets, and little "conveniences," and blue delft kitchen-ware. A tiny nest, filled with antiques, and all over, and photographs, and embroidered linens, and crowded with silk cushions. A house that can be kept "just so!"

But a MAN'S HOUSE is as differ-

A man likes a house big and roomy and comfortable—like his shoes

He likes to be able to see from one room to the other. He likes long vistas and nearly, honest fires that burn without smoking, and big broad verandas on which

He likes big, whole portions, not just fluffy apologies and that look as though they were ashamed of being beds and trying to

He wants his bathrooms such rooms that he can splash around in without getting the ceiling

He doesn't care anything about an 11 o'clock or whatever period he doesn't want to identify that he can't go to it until three things around and "make a mess" every time he gets a cooking complete

Elaine listened and wondered why some women had so much of this world's goods and others so little. DR. REED'S SECRETS OF HEALTH

By Charles A. Reed, M. D., Former President of the American Medical Association.

YOU, like everybody else, have within you a love of the beautiful and of the harmonious.

This is your aesthetic side.

It finds expression in your fondness for nice clothing, for refined personal appearance, your delight in contemplating a beautiful picture, your joy in listening to the sweet strains of music. This love of beauty and harmony exists in varying degree in different people.

Its indulgence comes as a relief from the work and care of daily life.

It is rest and repose to the wearied brain.

It is a stimulus to wit and wisdom. It is a panacea for ills.

It is a chief promoter of health, happiness and consequent success.

The trouble with our daily life that is enforces occupation of both mind and body too much to the exclusion of opportunity for the enjoyment of our natural aesthetic inclination and aspirations.

This is the logical result of the intensive specialization that characterizes modern life. The universal demand for efficiency is too much a demand for our entire productive energy. We have none left for the finer things of life.

The responsibility for this is not to be charged wholly to the demands of commercial or professional life or to economic conditions. The fault is largely within ourselves.

Indulgence of aesthetic tastes is always an individual matter. We can love and dream about the beautiful things of life in the midst of any daily occupation. We by giving thought to the subject, may occupy our periods of rest from labor, although brief, in securing pleasures for ourselves and for those about us in doing something that appeals to the aesthetic sense.

These comments apply not only to those who work in the kitchen, in the factory, on the farm or elsewhere, but to those who engage in the so-called intellectual pursuits. The teacher in his lecture room, the scientist in his laboratory, the philosopher in his study, the writer in his sanctum may become so immured in the task in hand as to dissociate and therefore to lose the gentler influences that flow from the beautiful and the harmonious.

This was exemplified in the life of the great scientist of modern life, Charles Darwin, who, in his biography says:

"When young, I profoundly loved poetry and music gave me exquisite delight; but in devoting myself to the purely scientific I grew unconsciously indifferent to both, until at last when I was fifty I discovered with a shock that poetry bored me unutterably and that it was impossible to listen to the music which had once given me infinite pleasure.

"I most profoundly regret the atrophy of the brain by disuse of the finer portions, for the people in recoverable. If I had my life to live over again I should read daily some fine poetry for its expression of the finer thoughts, and I should listen at least once a week to some good music, and thus keep alive these most important states."

Their loss in me is not only a great loss of happiness, which I might easily have retained, but I feel this misuse may have injured my brain-quality and have enfeebled my moral nature by the loss of fine distinctions. I urge any young scientist—any young business man—to profit by my example."

If Charles Darwin could make this confession how many more equally significant confessions could be made by the lesser, but luminous, of our intellectuals.

BEDTIME STORY

By Foxy Grandpa

ELIZABETH was going to camp.

You know Elizabeth is a little friend of Bunny's, Bobby's and mine, so naturally the morning she left with the counsellors and girls of her camp, we went to the train to see her off.

Elizabeth with her canteen slung over her shoulder went through the gate at Grand Central Station in New York to get on the White Mountain Express, and the last thing she said was:

"Don't forget to come up to see me, Foxy Grandpa."

So, that very next week-end we started by motor and drove up into New Hampshire to a beautiful lake where Elizabeth's camp was.

After lunch, Elizabeth suggested that we go for a horse-back ride and then come back for a swim.

We got on our horses and Bunny jumped into my pocket, and off we started.

We rode down by the lake and then started along a trail which led through a beautiful wood and out into a large green field.

"Don's a fine horse, Foxy Grandpa," said Elizabeth. "When I get into this field I'm going to try his canter," and off into the field Elizabeth led the way.

She dug her little heels into Don's side and pulled him in a little, to give the signal for him to break into a canter, when all of a sudden what did Don do but lie right straight down in the grass!

Elizabeth got off his back very skilfully, and I jumped from my horse to seize Don's bridle, for I didn't know what to expect. But nothing happened. Don just rolled over once or twice and kicked up his heels. Then he got up, neighed a little and looked around for his young rider.

Elizabeth wasn't frightened at all, but climbed right up in the saddle again.

That night Bunny came to me and said:

"Foxy Grandpa, Don is awfully mortified. He says he was very well-bred and always prided himself on his good manners. He doesn't know how he forgot them today and he hopes he didn't frighten Elizabeth, because he would like to take her for a ride every day."

"What on earth made him roll over in that field, Bunny?" I asked. "Do tell me."

"Foxy Grandpa," said Bunny. "Don told me he just couldn't help it. He said that he had been working for so many years in the city that when he saw that green field it reminded him of the days of his youth in pasture with his mother when he was a colt. He just naturally had to lie down in the grass and roll around and kick up his heels. But he says he'll never do it again, and that if his mother knew about it she would be as much ashamed of it as he is.

LONE OBJECTOR TO WATER TAX SQUELCHED

Fairhaven Man Pays His Compliments to Selectmen in Caustic Terms

The selectmen, school committee and library trustees of Fairhaven are not a "bunch of hicks," despite the inelegant but forceful characterization of them brought by grocery clerk Arthur C. Mattos of that town at the State House.

Arthur was present to argue for a $7 reduction in the household rate of the Fairhaven Water Company, and he was summarily squelched by the Board of Public Utilities when he had his little say.

While more than a hundred householders signed the petition for the reduction, Mattos found the whole burden of the argument devolved upon himself as the only petitioner present.

He promptly forgot all about the water rates but did a mouth job on the town officials, collectively and individually. Fairhaven is a healthy town, if one believes Arthur.

MISSIONS BENEFIT BY ALLIE BUSH WILL

Miss Sallie Bush of 218 Newbury street gave $2,000 to the Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the United States, by the terms of her will which was filed for probate in Suffolk county. She also gave $100 to the Woman's Auxiliary to the Board of Missions of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the United States; $200 to the Episcopal City Mission of Boston; $800 to the Girls' Friendly Home; $500 to the Boston Floating Hospital; $100 to the Welcome Home for rescue work among girls at 69 Florence street, and $200 to the Elizabeth Peabody Association for the use of its kindergarten.

MALDEN MAN DROWNED IN AUTO TRAP

Car Plunges Into Kennebec River; His Companion Is Saved

Skowhegan, Me., Sept. 24.—George D. Stevens of 74 Dexter street, Malden, Mass., is dead here, while his companion, Mrs. Alexander Bates of Portland, is in a serious condition following the plunge of their automobile down a steep embankment into the Kennebec River.

Linemen, who were working nearby, saw the accident and rushed to the rescue. They were able to drag the unconscious form of Mrs. Bates to the surface, but Stevens had been wedged beneath the car, and he was dead when they were finally able to extricate the body.

There is a sharp turn at Bingham Bridge, and whichever of the couple was driving the car lost control at that dangerous point.

Traffic Signal Caught Alleged Bootlegger

Winchester, Sept. 24.—The new traffic signal system in Winchester Centre accomplished the Waterloo of John Kofonicos, 37, married, of No. 110 Lewis street, Lowell.

Kofonicos came down South Main street from Medford, going toward Woburn. The signal was set red, which mans stop. Not being acquainted with the new law Kofonicos kept on going. Sergeant Thomas F. Cassidy shouted to him to stop and pull into the curb.

Kofonicos obeyed. Sergeant Cassidy went over after a minute or two and noticed that the rear side curtains of the touring car were up. He asked Kofonicos what he had inside, and, receiving an unsatisfactory answer, he lifted a blanket and saw tins of alcohol. There were 11 five-gallon tins and five one-gallon tins.

WIDER KNEELAND ST. IS OPPOSED BY THREE

There were only three opponents to the widening of Kneeland street at the land street from Washington street to Atlantic avenue before the street commissioners at a formal hearing in the court room of Edmund J. They felt the widening would injure their properties.

ELEVATOR DROPS IN HOTEL COMMODORE

New York, Sept. 24. (A.P.) — A crowded elevator in the Commodore Hotel fell from the main floor to the basement, rebounded from the percussion springs and jammed in the shaft above the lobby. Fifteen guests were taken through a fourfoot trap door, most of them suffering from the shock.

No explanation of the accident could be obtained.

Death was caused by gas poisoning and the authorities were undetermined tonight whether it was due to accidental causes or suicide.

JOKER BREAKS UP MEETING OF TAXI MEN

Both Sides Deadlocked After Fake Story of Strike-breakers Is Run Down

A joke-smith caused the only excitement and new development in the strike of the Checker taxi drivers. Just as the strikers were on the point of holding their meeting, the way entered the hall with the news that the Checker Company had put 50 cabs on the streets to pick up passengers.

In an instant the hall which had been crowded, was deserted, as the strikers dashed out to see what was going on. It didn't take them long, however, to appreciate the fact that they had been victims of a hoax and soon all returned to the meeting.

Why Our Air Service Is Inefficient

Aviation has never had a square deal under the Stars and Stripes. As a result, the United States, although the birthplace of the airplane, lacks the protection today that only an intensely modern Air Force can provide.

President Coolidge took a long step toward the organization of such an Air Force when he appointed the Air Board that is now in session in Washington. Not one of its nine members is an official of the War or Navy departments. Therefore, the Board can be counted upon to deal squarely with aviation, which the anti-aircraft bureaucracy in control of the War and Navy departments has never done.

From this Board President Coolidge has good reason to expect a report that will enable him to recommend to Congress ways and means of getting rid of the inefficiency that afflicts the existing organization of our Air Services.

Any Air officer of the United States Army, given the daring that goes with disregard of self, can and doubtless will tell the Coolidge Board that the only way to free the Air Service from the blight of inefficient organization is to emancipate the Air Service from the control and general direction of non-flying officers who have either little or no understanding of the proper use of aircraft in peace or war.

When the Great War came the military mind could conceive of only one function for aircraft and that was to provide an elevated platform from which the movement of land and sea forces could the better be observed. Then it was supposed that the sole function of Air Service in time of war was to serve as the eyes of the Army and Navy.

But soon it occurred to some aggressive aviator to carry along a shot-gun to aid him in preventing the enemy aviator from accomplishing his mission. Next a rifle was tried, and then a pistol, but still without success, so well-nigh impossible was it to hit these new, fast moving targets of the air.

Nevertheless, the aviator who carried the first shot-gun with him on his flight started the race for the supremacy of the air, which led to the development, during the Great War, of three types of aviation:

First: Pursuit Aviation; Second: Bombardment Aviation; and Third: Attack Aviation.

The pursuit airplane is only "a flying machine gun"—a small, fast combat plane, making upwards of 175 miles an hour.

Then came the bombing plane, carrying high explosive bombs, weighing upwards of a ton, which can blow up the largest forts and sink the largest armed battleships. Bombardment aviation has extended the coast lines of the United States hundreds of miles to sea, and ships on the water and troops on the ground are at the mercy of the aerial bomb.

Finally came Attack aviation—a combination of the fast pursuit plane and the huge bombardment plane, carrying machine guns and small bombs, to be used chiefly in straffing the personnel of land and sea forces.

In spite of this development of three types of aviation which the Great War brought, the anti-aircraft bureaucracy at Washington is still thinking in terms of the original function of aircraft, and seldom, if at all, thinking in terms of pursuit aviation, bombardment aviation or attack aviation, which comprise the modern Air Force against which there is no defense except a stronger Air Force.

Other nations, with longer and more bitter experience in the War than came to the United States, have long ago adopted a well-defined policy of air defense. Other nations have organized their air forces for the purpose of fighting "the battle of the air," just as an Army is organized to fight "the battle of the ground," and a Navy is organized to fight "the battle of the sea."

But it is hopeless to expect any such organization of our Air Forces until their general control is purged of inefficiency. That purging can only come by emancipating all of the operations of our Air Force, in peace and war, both in the Army and the Navy, from the control of non-flying officers who either cannot or will not see that an Air Force is neither another crutch for the Army and Navy in war, nor a new fad for the American people in peace, but a new arm of National Defense.

And this emancipation is essential to any reorganization of our Air Services if efficiency is to to take the place of inefficiency in their organization.

Gayer Males in Demand

Only Genus Homo Shuns Colors

Paris, figuratively speaking, has published a want ad for gayer males.

The habiliment of men, says its spokesman, is drab and colorless compared with the raiment of the glorified sex.

Bright shades and colorful costumes are suggested.

Playing the harmony of male attire in the chromatic major key is advocated.

A scientist speaking on evolution recently pointed out that in practically every form of life, from caterpillars to moths and from fishes to birds, the colorful, flashing, brilliant hued member of the family is the male.

Almost unique in this respect is the exception of man.

Just why the male of the species in this important case chooses retiring shades is a problem which wrinkles this particular scientist's ample forehead with puzzlement.

Perhaps this call to colors from the style capital of the world will demonstrate whether the usual characteristic of males still slumbers deep under the somber exterior of men or like the whale's legs is lost forever.

Weather Man Is Right

The public forgives but never forgets the mistakes of the weather man.

A majority of those who have had a picnic spoiled by rain when fair weather had been predicted have never forgotten it.

Weather predictions forever were, to them, synonymous with the unreliable.

Recently compiled figures show, however, that nine out of ten times the weather man is right.

In 88.4 per cent. of the cases, to be exact, the forecast has been correct.

But it is the one time out of ten that clings in the mind of the public and is oftenest referred to.

Josh Billings, the humorist, once sagely advised:

"Don't never prophesy, young man. For if you prophesy wrong nobody will forget it, and if you prophesy right, nobody will remember it."

MEDBURY SAYS---

By John P. Medbury

THE prohibition office says they're going to make this country dry if they have to padlock the front door of every cafe in the United States.

A DRINK is a drink at any entrance.

THE revenue agents dumped twelve hundred cases of booze overboard last week. The next day twenty-four hundred people took up diving.

SWIMMERS used to be afraid they'd hit the bottom, now they're afraid they won't.

ACCORDING to government statistics, there are only a few places in New York city where you can't get a drink, but nobody seems to care where they are.

ONE man said he wanted to know the locations so that he wouldn't get in any of them by mistake.

IF THERE are two cafes together, you can always tell which is the soft drink place. The crowds will be in the one next door.

A CLEVER sleuth made forty-three arrests last week. He went around to the different joints and posed as a policeman.

NOBODY would have suspected he was a revenue officer if he hadn't kept drinking so much.

THEY could tell by his thirst that he wasn't an ordinary citizen.

HE WAS combining business with pleasure.

AND he was paying more attention to pleasure than he was to business.

HE COULDN'T have drunk more if he'd been off duty.

IT LOOKED as though he was endeavoring to make the country go dry all by himself.

THE other revenue officers hated him. He never left anything for them.

HE DID the drinking and they made the arrests.

AND last week he was 497 drinks ahead of the pinches.

IF THE government can get enough prohibition agents like him, this country can't help going dry.

SOME GIRLS say they Don't like being KISSED
BY A MAN
The FIRST TIME
They go out with him.
And when THAT is
The case, SOMETIMES
The FIRST time is ALSO
The LAST.
SOME men think
That if a girl does
Not want to kiss them
The FIRST time, they NEVER WILL, which Probably is RIGHT.
Girls don't wait for
A man's personality
To "grow on them" now.
Both MEN and KISSES
Are EASY to find.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis.

LIFE'S a flower. Wear it so,
Like a rose that you would take from the plot where roses grow peering in the mimic lake. Hold it proudly and be glad of the precious gift you own. When were roses ever sad? Life's a flower. Make no mean. Life's a flower, blooming now, bright and colorful and sweet.
Prize it justly; make no vow that the swift years can defeat. Flowers bud to fade some day; life will wither like the rest, but before it droops away, win its highest, take its best.

36 Clergymen Killed

Deplores School Whipping

To the Friend of the People:

It is good to see the children going to school again. If in school a boy or girl is whipped for some little thing, they will be afraid of the school and teachers.

Then this fear of being whipped affects their health. If teachers would only try to deal with children in a tactful way, instead of threatening them with punishment, it would please mothers more. I speak from an experience.

I am in a contest to win fifty cents an hour, if I will answer certain questions in American history. My father wants me to stop reading story magazines and give more attention to history. The questions which our school teacher put before me, I have answered, but I've got three that are stickers.

Can you answer them? "Who was the rough and ready president of the United States? Where was the first printing press in America? What father and son were presidents of the United States?"

Justice for Army Clerks

To the Friend of the People:

Army officers are backing the movement of having Army field clerks eligible for retired list and placed on the same ground as officers of the Army. If the Army field clerk can be made warrant officer, this will pave the way for this privilege.

No branch of the service renders better clerical work than the Army field clerk. He keeps strict account of Army details, and is ready to give information upon them at a minute's notice. His efficiency and his knowledge of the different units of the Army qualify him for more considerate treatment than he is getting. Even the ordinary laborer in the Army can go on the retired list, but the Army field clerk still remains under the ban. How long is this to continue?

Careless Mailing

To the Friend of the People:

Over a million of letters, first class, are sent out of the Boston general post office daily. Why do not people take more care in addressing their letters? They often forget to put down the State or town.

On account of carelessness, the dead letter offices have multiplied. We used to have one at Washington and this answered for some time, but now we have them in many cities. If the general public continue to be careless about their mail, dead letter offices will increase and add to the expense of the post office department.

UNREST OF YOUTH CAN BE CURBED

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THERE is a Mr. Olinger in Denver who has founded an organization known as the Boy Highlanders.

The gist of it seems to be that every grown man is to be a friend of some boy. The idea has often been used and always with success.

The program of this organization involves a man's giving a part of his time and attention and money to some boy.

A man never finds his true status in life except when he turns back and influences youth.

What we do for grown-ups is of questionable value, but what we do for youth there is no dispute about.

Any man's life is of value as he increases the life force of the succeeding generation.

The Highlanders organization seeks to strengthen the health and physical condition of the boys and also their spiritual life. It is not denominational, but is thoroughly ethical.

Religion can be best propagated by example and influence, and the sooner we learn to quit arguing with each other and discussing elements that we know nothing about, and begin to show forth in our daily life whatever helpful influence we have received from religion, the better it is for our faith.

Boys naturally gather in groups and they covet the friendship of older people more than we suspect. If this group spirit and desire for companionship on the part of their elders can be taken advantage of it is a good thing for the boys.

The Highlanders in Denver make tripe to factories, local industries, and various points of interest about the city. These experiences have proven very valuable to the average boy.

There may be boys who want to do wrong, but in most of them it is an outcropping merely of the spirit of adventure or the "gang" spirit.

If this force of unrest in the boys can be taken advantage of and they can be led into the right kind of living by the influence and example of their older brethren, it ought to do much good.

Mr. Olinger is a man of some wealth and he is to be congratulated upon using his advantages in the best way to increase the value of life.

The benefit to be received by being a Highlander is indicated by their oath which they are all required to take, which is that one shall "be kind, live pure, speak the truth, right wrong, defend the weak, and play the game square."

About all there is to a successful life, after all, is playing the game square.

MEETING MYSTERIES AND DECEPTIONS

By Garrett P. Serviss.

A READER in San Diego writes me with reference to a recent article in which I described my failure to get any "results" from experiments in "levitation":

"Do you think it possible that the reason for your failure was that the attitude of your mind was one of doubt, that is, that instead of concentrating all your attention on the breathing you endeavored to observe your effort? If you should make any further experiments would it not be worth while to try it once along this line, and leave the matter of determining the effort involved to later analysis?"

Natural Law.

There is a general principle involved here which applies to all investigation of occult phenomena, including the performances of spiritual mediums and their managers and assistants. To start with, the phenomena are admittedly mysterious, i. e. unexplained by the known laws and ordinary operations of nature.

Then, the question to be settled is whether these phenomena really do violate natural law, or only appear to do so. Inasmuch as everybody knows by every-day experience how deceptive the senses are—thousands of persons have seen imaginary ghosts, and had other startling experiences, afterward plainly proved to have been illusions and deceptions of the senses—the proper attitude of mind in the presence of any apparently inexplicable occurrence is that of doubt and of critical attention.

Every reasoning person would admit that this is so whenever there is ground for suspecting fraud or collusion; but it is no less so when the experimenter has only to guard against mistakes of his own. There is in human nature a powerful current sweeping the mind toward mysticism. It may arise from an ancestral trait, harking back to the time when men dwelt in the shadows of caverns, and when reason, the child of experience, had not yet bitted the imagination.

In the case of "levitation" referred to the modus operandi insisted upon involves a careful synchronizing of the breathing of the person to be levitated with that of the levitators.

The latter usually affirm that they are aware of no effort in lifting the subject of the experiment. They also say that unless they succeed in keeping their respiration perfectly timed, and in all holding the breath simultaneously, the "levitation" will not occur.

Common sense, then, says to any one seriously investigating the phenomenon: "There probably lies the key to the deception. The attention of the levitators is so exclusively fixed upon the synchronizing of the breathing and of the breath holding that they are unaware of the effort they actually make in lifting.

The careful synchronizing produces a unity of effort which otherwise would be absent, and the unity, by greatly diminishing the amount of force required from each lifter, breeds the deception.

Study the Effort.

Now, to detect this, manifestly the investigator should study the effort made, and should not allow his attention to be absorbed by the expedients of the mystification. He should hold firm his faith in the law of universal gravitation, and if he is going to believe anything beforehand, let him believe with all his mind that no substantial thing can be lifted without the exertion of a physical force, and that if a weight of 150 pounds is to be raised against the force of gravity, then, somehow or other, a force of 150 pounds must be opposed to gravity.

As a matter of fact, "it is not difficult for the experimentor, whether acting as "levitator" or "levitated," to synchronize his breathing and at the same time to keep aware of what his muscles are doing, or of what effort the muscles of others are exerting upon, him. From whichever side viewed, the experiment has always failed in my case. But it is a pretty parlor game.

YOU MAKE YOUR OWN FRIENDS OR ENEMIES

Sometimes you may wonder why you have so many enemies.

You want friends, but what have you ever done to bring you a strong friendship?

Are you ever careful to hold your tongue when you want to express an adverse criticism?

It is not the fault of others that you feel so many against you.

It is your own attitude toward your associates which makes for friends or for enemies.

Are you uncompromising in getting your own way?

Are you sneeringly intolerant of others' opinions?

Are you malicious in your conversation?

Do you try to exact attentions where nothing is due you?

Do you try to swing in on another's glory where your own effort has been void?

You can be sure these qualities are known to your acquaintances.

A real friend is self sacrificing and cheerful about it.

If you give freely of yourself and your time and feel kindly to others your enemies will be a minor quantity.
